Rescue Attempt Fails

Two Dead in Ditch Cave-in

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON

Police today unearthed the lifeless bodies of two men who were buried alive while hunting for antique bottles in the Downtown Urban Renewal Project between lower Broadway and Hasbrouck Avenue.

Ulster County Coroner William H. Keyser pronounced both men dead at the scene.

Authorities said it was believed that both men were employed at the International Business Machines plant in Kingston. One of the dead men reportedly resided in Kingston.

Police authorities still are not sure when the incident took place. One report received was that the men had gone to the area early this morning to dig for the bottles. A bystander reported that the incident occurred around 9:30 a.m. today.

The two dead men have not been identified by police, pending notification of their next of kin.

The two men who apparently were digging a 15-foot-high embankment when it collapsed on top of them. They were trapped under several feet of earth.

The first person at the scene of the tragedy, who was reportedly James Powers, Port Ewen, said he saw several men digging in the embankment. When he looked back a few minutes later, the embankment had collapsed, trapping the men underneath.

Powers said he then began digging in a vain attempt to reach the pair. He then summoned police, who rushed to the scene.

Several uniformed policemen arrived at the scene and began digging into the embankment. They later called a bulldozer from the Public Works Department to assist.

Several construction men working in the area, along with City Detective Joseph Feraca and the city bulldozer, labored for more than an hour in an attempt to reach the trapped men.

The first body was uncovered at 10:30 a.m. Minutes later, diggers uncovered the lifeless body of the second man.

Both men appeared to be middle-aged. They were dressed in blue or brown coveralls and work boots. One of the dead men's head was badly bloodied.

Coroner Keyser said the two apparently died of suffocation, but he could not estimate how long they were trapped below the earth before they died. He said it depended on the soil composition and whether or not there were any air pockets.

Doctors' Ambulance service was at the scene. The two bodies were lifted onto stretchers and transported to the city morgue. An autopsy will be performed.

The tragic incident occurred where land is being leveled for the Broadway East housing project of the Urban Development Corporation.

A bystander told The Freeman that a number of persons have been searching through the embankment for the past several days in an attempt to find bottles of historical significance. Many of the bottles found in that area date back to the late 1800's or early 1900's, when most of the activity in Kingston was centered in the downtown area.

The two diggers apparently found several items of value. When their bodies were uncovered, several old bottles were seen scattered in the dirt. Also recovered were two long-handled shovels and several shorter hoes.

An expert bottle collector at the scene said one of the items was valued at no more than 75 cents.

Police feared for a time that a third body might have been trapped beneath the stones and dirt. But subsequent digging failed to uncover another body.

SLAIN HIJACKER . . . The body of Richard Obergfell, who hijacked a TWA jetliner Friday after an FBI agent armed with a high powered rifle shot and killed him as he stood at the end of a runway at Kennedy Airport. A TWA stewardess, Idie Maria Concepcion formally of Los Angeles, was being held hostage by the hijacker but was not injured. FBI Man Guns Down Hijacker at Kennedy

NEW YORK (UPI)—About 20 minutes out of La Guardia Airport on the way to Chicago, TWA Flight 335 turned back Friday when the pilot announced a hijacker had other plans.

The trip for the hijacker, Richard Obergfell, 26, ended on a runway at Kennedy Airport when he was shot and killed by an FBI agent. Obergfell apparently had a girl friend in Milan, Italy, he wanted to visit.

Obergfell, a former airline mechanic, pulled a pistol on stewardess Idie Maris Concepcion, 21, of Burbank, Calif., as she was serving drinks in the first class section. Miss Concepcion said later she already had become suspicious and had planned to report Obergfell.

Capt. Albert R. Hawes, 42, of Hopatcong, N.J., informed Obergfell that the plane was not capable of making the trans-Atlantic flight. Obergfell agreed to return to New York and switch planes.

"We're going back to La Guardia. We've got a gentleman who wants to go other places," Hawes said over the public address system.

The 55 passengers and five other crew members besides Miss Concepcion left the plane from the rear hatch when it landed at LaGuardia. Obergfell, waving his pistol, and the stewardess left the plane about 10 minutes later and Frank Weaver, TWA's manager of passenger services at LaGuardia, showed them to a panel truck that took them to Kennedy Airport where a Boeing 707 was waiting to fly to Italy.

The panel truck followed an unidentified black passenger car to the end of Runway 22 at Kennedy, about one half-mile north of the TWA passenger terminal. Miss Concepcion said Obergfell was nervous and concerned about who was in the car.

Jack Murnik, a TWA maintenance man who drove the truck, was released at the runway and Obergfell and Miss Concepcion were left alone near the 707. He still showed concern about the car parked nearby and began moving slowly away from her toward it, Miss Concepcion said.

When the hijacker was about 20 feet from the stewardess, FBI agent Kenneth W. Lovin, hidden behind a metal "blast fence" at the end of the runway, fired two shots. "I thought I was shot," Miss Concepcion said later. "I couldn't see anyone else, it was only him and me, so who else could be shot but me?"

The first shot hit Obergfell in the stomach. He fell to his knees and started to get up.

IDIE CONCEPCION

Lovin fired again, hitting him in the left shoulder. He was dead on arrival at a nearby hospital.

Obergfell was a former mechanic for United Air Lines at Newark, N.J., and LaGuardia airports. He was dismissed last December for "unsatisfactory absenteeism," a UAL spokesman said.

Obergfell's former landlord said he apparently had a girl friend in Italy he wanted to see.

They had been exchanging letters and Obergfell had been expecting the girl to come to the United States, John Celantano of Clifton, N.J., said.

"Then things started to go bad," Celantano said. "He got laid off. He couldn't make the rent and had to leave the apartment."

Obergfell had lived in an apartment building Celantano owned in Passaic, N.J.

Among the items Obergfell left behind was an employment application he had filed at Alitalia, the Italian airline, Celantano said.

Miss Concepcion said she had become suspicious of Obergfell, who had a white cloth inside his jacket that he kept over his knees. He explained that he had been working on his car. But before she could report him, he had aimed the pistol at her and she led him to the cockpit.

Obergfell was stopped and a small bag he carried was searched by airline security agents before he boarded the flight to Chicago. But no weapon was found.

A metal sensor had set off an alarm and he displayed several suspicious traits common to hijackers, officials said.

Draft Orders Possible For 1971 College Grads

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's draft boards are alive and well and may start inducting some 1971 college graduates unless Congress extends their authority to draft 19-year-olds before September, says Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird.

Laird told newsmen Friday the government may have to begin drafting previously deferred men unless a Senate-House conference committee breaks a deadlock that has held up renewal of a key provision of the draft law.

"I do not believe we can delay much longer than September," Laird said.

Defense Secretary Laird and the Nixon administration in rift over legislation rescuing Lockheed Aircraft Corporation. Story on page 14.

The deadlock is over a Senate amendment, sponsored by Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., calling for total U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam nine months after the bill is enacted. The amendment would not be binding on the President.

Until the deadlock is resolved, the government can draft only men deferred before the basic draft authority expired June 30. And it must wait until the deferments have expired.

Draft Director Curtis W. Tarr has declined to use his authority to call men who have lost their deferments, and Laird indicated that a decision to do so probably would have to come from the White House.

A White House spokesman said drafting men whose deferments have expired would be inherently unfair but might have to be considered if a manpower shortage develops.

Aside from the induction authority, however, the draft law remains in effect—a point Tarr has urged draft boards to make clear to draft age men.

Draft age men should be told, he added in a letter Friday to the nation's 4,200 local draft boards that "there is a high probability that the induction authority for those who have never had a deferment will be reinstated in the near future."

Local boards, he said, should tell men they may be unintentionally breaking the law by failing to register at age 18, failing to notify their boards of changes of status or failing to report for pre-induction physicals.

MTA Defends Project

Jetport Decision Reserved

NEW YORK CITY the proposed land-taking is illegal. The group opposed to the land-taking is composed of the Towns of Cornwall, New Windsor, Montgomery, Newburgh, Greenvale and Wawayanda, the Village of Maybrook, the Stop the Jetport Action Committee, the Hudson River Valley Council, Stewart Area Protective Association, the Rock Tavern Rod and Gun Club, Inc., and four landowners — John A. Flannery, Agnes Schibanoff, Walter Strassburg, and William Shafer.

The opponents of the land-taking are represented by David Sive, a noted environmental lawyer.

Yesterday, Sive argued that until a federally approved master plan study shows the acreage is needed, its owners should not be made tenants of the MTA. Sive contended it would make the landowners "completely powerless."

Sive argued many residents would suffer grievous and irreparable injury through loss of homes, businesses and farms. Calling the condemnation plans "inherently and unavoidably hazardous" and "destructive of the natural beauty of the area," Sive said the proposal lacked federal approval in a national airways scheme. He also said it would violate the constitutional rights of the towns of Cornwall, New Windsor, and Montgomery.

Sive also warned of "possible loss or interference with the water supply" of New Windsor. MTA lawyer John R. Hupper denied the agency was "a juggernaut without regard for the feeling of local people."

Hupper said the state would need the expanded airport, even if a fourth major airport for the New York area were built offshore in the Atlantic Ocean, as some have suggested.

"We need this for international cargo and for general aviation that's very clear," said Hupper. "All systems are go."

General aviation includes 2,000 homes near the city's airport. The area surrounding the Los Angeles airport would be a buffer zone to ease noise and increase safety once the homes have been removed.

"To obviate such problems in the future, responsible public officials are now seeking to preserve for present and future airport needs sufficiently large sites to service present air traffic, to provide a buffer zone between the airport and any residences or commercial activities," Ronan's statement said.

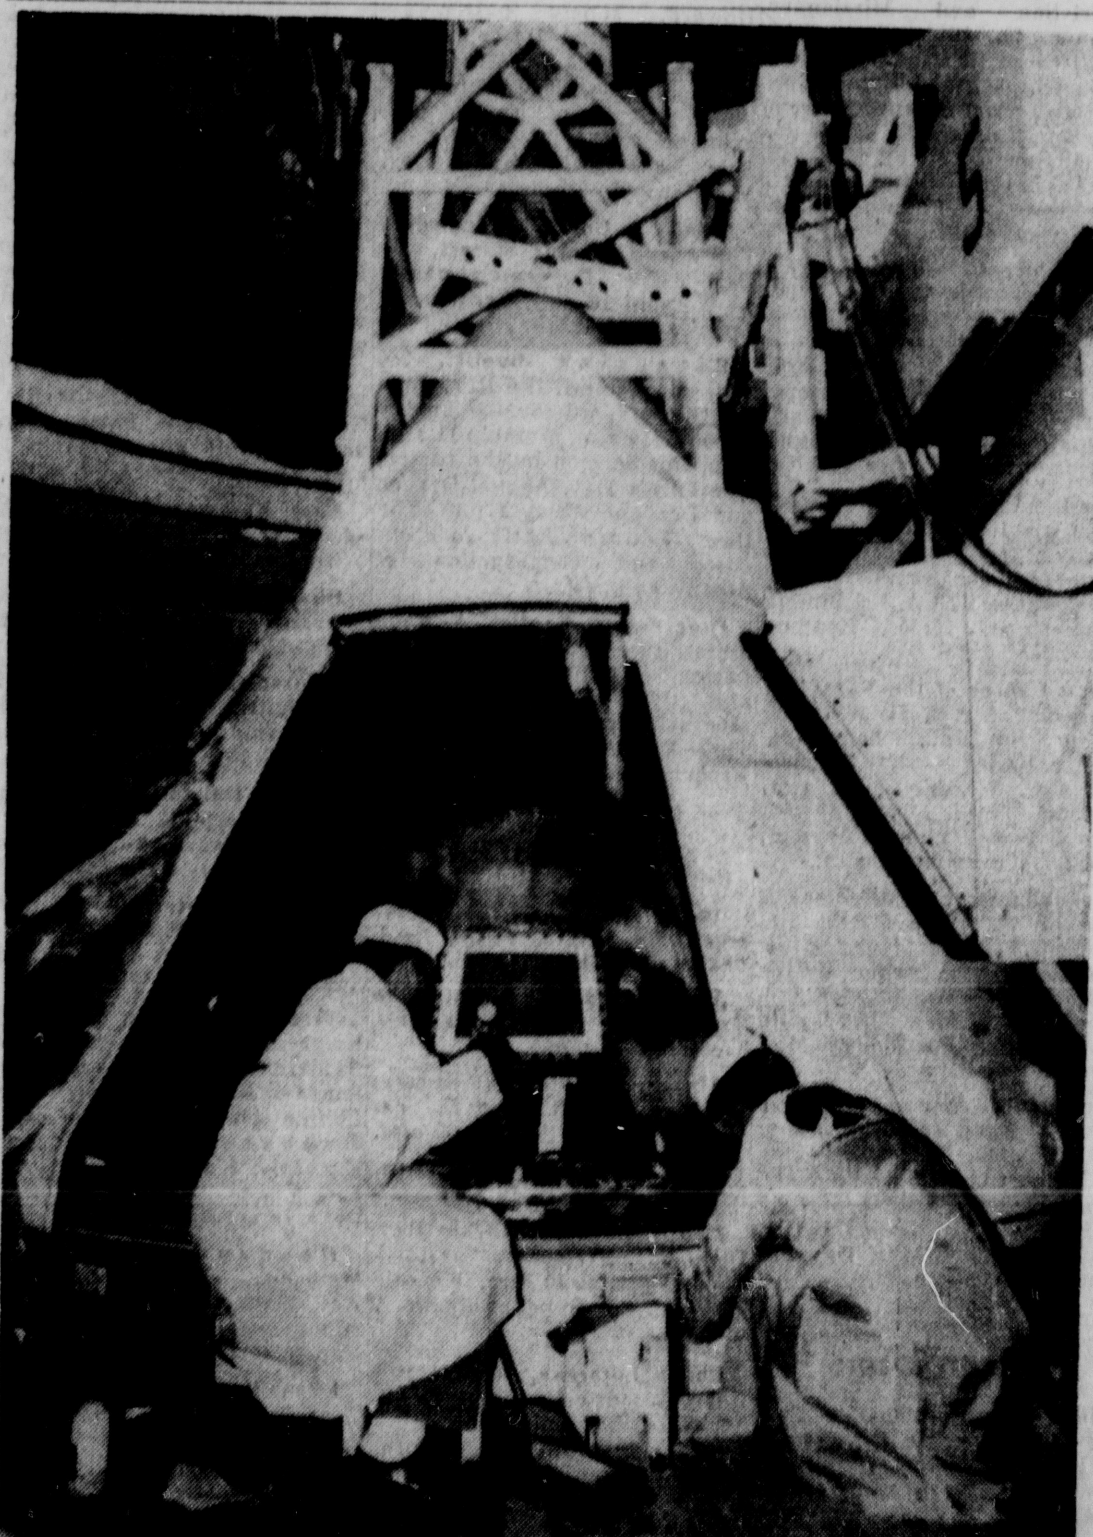

The affidavit further stated "the plaintiffs fear that the appropriation of land will immediately cause a radical change in their lives is entirely without basis."

Ronan had been subpoenaed, but was not present at the hearing.

Hupper said the "most imminent aspect" of the project would be a 1,000 foot extension of the existing east-west runway using 40 to 40 acres at the west end.

British Army on the Offense Against Terrorist Strongholds

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP)—The British army has gone on the offensive in Northern Ireland to smash terrorist strongholds and assert London's determination to keep the province within the United Kingdom.

Informal sources said swoops like Friday's, in which 1,800 soldiers supported by police raided more than 100 homes throughout Northern Ireland, can be expected frequently in coming months.

Home Secretary Reginald Maudling, responsible for security in Northern Ireland, promised to suppress violence and terrorism and keep the province British "by whatever means may be necessary."

In the past two weeks two people have been killed and many wounded in increasing outbreaks of shooting, rioting and bombing. Damage was estimated at about $4.5 million.

Most of the violence was blamed on the IRA, which has pledged to reunite Northern Ireland "by bullet and bomb" with the Irish Republic to the south.

The army initiative was greeted with satisfaction by members of the ruling Unionist Party. The predominantly Protestant party has been critical in recent weeks at the army's apparent lack of punch in dealing with the surge in IRA activity.

But reaction in Catholic opposition circles was bitter.

Bernadette Devlin, fiery left member of the British Parliament, said the action was almost bound to create still more trouble.

Search for Boy Continues, Despite Lack of New Leads

NEWCOMB, N.Y. (UPI)—With no fresh leads in the past two days and with the passage of time dimming the hopes of some, civilian and military volunteers continued the search for Douglass Legg today in the densely wooded Adirondacks.

Douglass, the eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William N. Legg of the Syracuse suburb of Baldwinsville, disappeared two weeks ago today while hiking on the 13,000-acre estate of a relative in this Essex County community.

A sneaker print thought to be Douglass's was found earlier in the week — and bloodhounds picked up occasional scents — but the boy has not been found. Authorities discount the possibility of foul play.

"We should know something by mid-week," said one official at search headquarters Friday night when asked whether the search would continue indefinitely, as has been the case since July 10.

A highly trained search team, the Mountain Rescue Association of California, planned to leave for home today after spending a week in the search area, part of the six-million-acre Adirondack Forest Preserve. The 31-member team was flown in at a cost of $9,000, reportedly paid by relatives of the missing boy.

"They're real professionals," said one state trooper, "and they certainly helped us cover ground. But they couldn't stay on and on 2,500 miles from their homes."

The 350,000 search force was expected to be swelled by additional volunteers during the weekend. Participating were about 40 Green Beret Special Forces from Ft. Devens, Mass., 23 regular Army personnel from Camp Drum, sheriff's deputies, state police, forest rangers, conservation officers and bloodhounds as well as area residents, experienced woodsmen and other volunteers.

An Air Force C-130 reconnaissance plane was pressed in to the search during the week. The plane, equipped with an infrared camera, made several flights over the area. "Hot spots" indicating changes in heat on the ground were pinpointed on several occasions but ground search teams helicoptered into the areas found no clues.

Ulster County Vols Select Village Man

ROSENDALE — Merrill Williams of Pioneer Engine Company, Ellenville, was elected president of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association, which includes fire companies in Binnewater, Bloomington, Cottickill, High Falls, Rosendale and Tillsen. The group's 36th Annual Convention dinner Friday night.

The three-day festivities, held in conjunction with the 75th anniversary of Active Hose Company of Rosendale, were climaxed today by a huge parade.

Williams, who served as first vice-president of the Association last year, succeeded Maurice Crookston of Rosendale's Active Hose Company as president. Crookston was later elected to a five-year term on the Association's Board of Directors.

John A. Snyder of the Centerville Fire Company was elected first vice-president and Dominik Costantino of Highland Hose Company No. 1 was elected second vice-president.

Two long-time veterans of the Association were also re-elected to office. Fred C. Harder will enter his 29th term as secretary and Henry DuBois was re-elected treasurer for the 27th consecutive year.

Charles Reis was elected a director to fill the unexpired term of Dominik Costantino. Reis is a member of the A.H. Wicks Engine and Truck Company of Kingston.

Six new members, all from the Marlboro Fire Company, were accepted to membership in the Association. They are Robert M. Troncillo, Ronald Prainito Sr., Frank T. Santamora, Percy S. Carlock, Anthony F. Kraja Jr. and James Coddington III.

Today's parade began at 4 p.m. on James Street in Rosendale and disbanded on Route 32. The reviewing stand was on Main Street.

Minor fire damage was reported to an electric ventilation motor at the Sears Automotive Center in the Kingston Plaza early Friday evening.

Kingston paid fire fighters responded to the 7:30 p.m. alarm and doused the small blaze with a dry powder extinguisher and a small amount of carbon dioxide.

Damage was reported to the motor. The cause was listed as a short circuit.

Deputy Chief Glynn Southard was in charge.

Kingston Needs Sweep to Pull Out Title

JAMESTOWN team with its guard down, beating them, 14-1.

Kingston then had to come back last night and, with the threat of elimination hanging overhead, beat Binghamton, 9-3.

The situation looks like this: Kingston plays South Utica at 7 p.m. A South Utica win ends the tournament. A Kingston win ends the records of the two squads at 3-1 and forces a playoff for the championship tonight at 7 p.m. The victor takes home the bacon.

Kingston had been the favorite going into the game yesterday. But paced by Al Pagon's six-hit pitching and aided by six National errors South Utica won going away.

The upstarters scored in every inning as they clubbed 17 hits to go along with the Kingston miscues. Dave Decker started for the losers and was shelved out of the contest in the third. Billy Costello relieved him and took a few lumps while going the rest of the way.

Binghamton, meanwhile, came right back to get all it needed in the bottom of the frame.

Lou Eccleston walked to lead off the inning and Ed Glynn followed by reaching on an error. Then Walt Houghtaling lined a hit to drive in one and Walt DeBrosky singled driving home two more.

For DeBrosky it was the first of five RBI's he was to get. Walter had three base hits as did Houghtaling, who knocked in two.

Pitcher Glynn held Binghamton to five hits despite suffering an injured leg midway through the tilt which had him hobbled. It was his second victory of the series.

Today John Stote will go for the Nationals in what Kingston hopes will be the first game of a twin-bill. Stote beat Rotterdam on Wednesday 5-1 in one of the best pitched games of the tournament. But it was feared that a sore arm would keep him out of the South Utica game.

If Kingston does make it to a night showdown, speculation is that Decker will get the call.

GOING FISHING—Bruce Crampton goes fishing for his ball after he hit it into a drain off the 12th green at the $250,000 Westchester Classic in Harrison Friday. PGA official Wade Cagle watches Crampton, who was not penalized, try to bring his ball out of the ditch. Crampton, the defending champion from Australia, shot a 72 in second round play to put him four strokes behind leader, Arnie Palmer. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Palmer Carrying Prestige Banner

By FRED McMANE
UPI Sports Writer

HARRISON, N.Y. (UPI) — Lee Trevino is gone and Jack Nicklaus is ailing, so it's up to Arnold Palmer to carry on the prestige of the $250,000 Westchester Classic.

No unknown player has ever won the world's richest tournament, dating back to its beginning in 1967, but entering today's third round there are four unheralded players who are challenging Palmer for the top spot.

Their names sound more like those of a prominent Park Ave. law firm, but Bob E. Smith, Gibby Gilbert, Larry Wood and Bob Stone have each put together two solid rounds over the 6,700-yard par 72 Westchester Country Club course to move into serious contention for the $500,000 top prize.

Smith, a 28-year-old from Sacramento, Calif., who has never finished higher than fifth in his five years on the circuit, posted his second consecutive 68 Friday to move into second place with a 36-hole score of 136. Gilbert, Wood and Stone all were grouped at 137 after rounds of 70, 72 and 69 respectively.

Palmer, the first day leader with a 64, continued his fine play as he carded a two-under par 70 that left him all alone in the No. 1 spot with a 10-under par 134. Palmer, who is just returning to the circuit after a two-week layoff, wasn't dropping putts as often as he did Thursday but the 41-year-old master still had his game under control.

"I had only one bogey an it was the first one I've had in the tournament," said golf's former kingpin. "I had a pretty good opportunity to pick up."

some shots and I didn't do it, but I played pretty good. I was not in any real serious trouble. I didn't putt as well as I did Thursday but then the greens were playing a little harder."

While Palmer continued to conquer the course, the course proved the master of Trevino. The U.S. and British Open champion had one of his worst rounds of the year, a 75, and his two-round total of 146 was not enough to qualify for the third round. It marked the first time in 29 tournaments that Trevino had missed the 36-hole cut.

The cutoff mark was 145 with 81 players qualifying, and Trevino might have made it had he not taken a triple bogey on the 18th hole. But the fun-loving Mexican-American hit his second shot into a tree on the final hole and needed six shots to reach the green. Immediately upon completing his round he left to go fishing in Connecticut.

"I didn't want to play last week or this week," Trevino admitted, "but there was so much promotion that I felt obligated. I have no intention to play golf right now and I can't force myself to try any more. It's temporary. I'm just tired out."

Nicklaus, co-favorite in the tournament with Trevino, also had some problems but his were of a physical nature. Big Jack was bothered for the second consecutive day by blurred vision and he was forced to consult a doctor, who diagnosed the problem as an infection and treated Nicklaus with eye drops.

Despite the ailment, Nicklaus managed to post a 69 and his two-round score of 141 left him in contention.

"My eyes maybe cost me a couple of shots, but it's not the reason for my score," said Nicklaus. "I have had three sixes in two days and if I could eliminate those I'm in good position."

Meanwhile, Smith, Gilbert, Wood and Stone have taken over Nicklaus' role as the major challengers to Palmer. Gilbert's round Friday was remarkable. He started off with two bogeys and a double-bogey on three of the first four holes but rebounded with six consecutive birdies from the eighth through the 13th. That was just two short of the PGA record set by Bob Gahby in 1963.

Oddly enough, Smith and Gilbert had been struggling in the two weeks prior to the Classic.

"Over the last two months I played so badly I figured I was just spinning my wheels," said Gilbert, "and after four holes today I had visions of missing the cut."

A's Catfish Assumes Control

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Oakland A's haven't been scoring many runs of late for Jim "Catfish" Hunter, so the pitcher took matters—and a hot bat—into his own hands Friday night.

The right-hander crashed a home run and two singles, driving in four runs as he snapped a personal four-game losing streak and beat the Detroit Tigers 9-7 with help from Roland Fingers in the seventh.

"I think when a pitcher can hit, the manager will stay with him longer," said Hunter, 12-9, who surrendered eight hits and six runs before giving way to Fingers. Hunter is now hitting .365 with a double, triple, home run and 11 runs batted in.

Elsewhere in the American League, Baltimore edged California 4-3, Boston outlasted Minnesota 8-6, Kansas City beat Cleveland 6-4 and the New York Yankees downed Milwaukee 6-2. The Chicago White Sox and Washington were rained out.

In the National League it was: Philadelphia 4, Chicago 2; Houston 5, New York 1; St. Louis 6, Montreal 2; Pittsburgh 4, San Diego 0; Cincinnati 3, San Francisco 2; and Atlanta 5, Los Angeles 3.

Detroit took a 2-0 lead against Hunter in the first inning on Aurelio Rodriguez homer and Jim Northrup's RBI single. Hunter, who lost his last three decisions by scores of 2-1, 3-0 and 2-1, tied it in the third with his home run off Mickey Lolich.

Ed Brinkman's two-run homer in the fourth regained the lead for Detroit but Oakland tied it again in the sixth with five singles, including run-scoring hits by Hunter and Dick Green.

Bando Power

Sal Bando put the A's in front with a two-run homer in the seventh—Hunter drove in another run with a ground ball—and hit a solo shot in the eighth. Kevin Collins and Dick McAuliffe also homered for Detroit.

"I like to think of myself as a good hitter," said Hunter. "I don't go for the long ball but I just try to hit line drives. I've hit 200 or more every year but one home run a year is about my limit."

Hunter said he couldn't remember ever driving in four runs on one game before, although he did recall a bases-loaded triple against Washington. "I don't think I ever got three hits in one game, either," he said.

Baltimore and Boston continued to pull away from the pack in the AL East. The Orioles lead the Red Sox by 3 1/2 games while the Tigers dropped 10 lengths back.

The Orioles rallied twice against California and finally beat the Angels on Elrod Hendricks' tie-breaking pinch single with the bases loaded in the ninth inning, giving Pat Dobson his 13th triumph and 10th in a row.

Frank Robinson's home run in the fourth helped Baltimore erase a 2-0 deficit and Robinson walked in the sixth, took third on Brooks Robinson's double and scored on an infield out after the Angels had taken a 3-2 lead.

Merv Rettenmund's infield hit, an error and Mark Belanger's bunt single preceded Hendricks' game-winning hit.

Boxox Homers

Home runs by Reggie Smith and George Scott drove in five runs in the third inning and the Red Sox held on to beat the Twins, who have lost 13 of their last 17 games. Bob Montgomery's double and a single by winning pitcher Ray Culp accounted for the first run of the six-run frame.

Montgomery's sacrifice fly in the sixth drove in the decisive run and Boston added an unearned tally in the ninth. Harmon Killebrew and Jim Nettles each drove in two runs for the Twins.

The Royals trailed the Indians and Sam McDowell 2-0 but erupted for four runs in the fifth and were never headed. Jerry May doubled home the first run, Paul Schaaf's sacrifice fly tied the score and Cookie Rojas singled with the bases loaded to put KC in front 4-2.

the sixth and Amos Otis homered in the seventh. Roy Foster and Graig Nettles connected for the Indians.

Two-run singles by Bobby Murcer, Felipe Alou and Jerry Kenney sparked Mel Stottlemyre and the Yankees to their victory over the Brewers.

Stottlemyre scattered six hits and both Milwaukee runs in the fourth inning were unearned. Murcer started the assault on Bill Parsons with a two-run single in the first and Alou, who had four hits, singled a pair across in the third, Kenney wrapped it up with bases-loaded single in the eighth.

Richie Hebner provided Bruce Kison with all the support he needed, socking a two-run homer, his 16th in the third inning, off Clay Kerby, 8-7, as Pittsburgh beat San Diego.

Willie Stargelli, the major league leader in homers, walked his 32nd in the fifth, and a single by Stargelli, a double by Hebner and a sacrifice fly by Milt May accounted for the first Pittsburgh run in the second.

Hal McRae homered in the fifth for the Reds' other run.

Williams Clubs Pair

Rookie Earl Williams lashed two homers in pacing Atlanta's victory over the slumping Dodgers, who have lost 13 of their last 17 games. Williams belted a solo shot, his 16th, in the second inning and connected with one on in the fourth.

Both blasts came off Bill Singer, 5-12.

Willie Crawford had four hits for the Dodgers, including homer and a double.

Dor Wilson, 7-7, stopped the Mets on three hits and seven strikeouts in saddling the slumping New Yorkers with their 17th loss in 21 games.

Jim Wynn's two-run homer and run-scoring hits by Cesar Cotto, Doug Rader and Enis Menke highlighted the Houston attack.

St. Louis capitalized on three Montreal errors to score four runs in the fourth inning and beat the Expos in a game delayed 37 minutes by a power failure that hit all of Quebec Province.

During the blackout, Cardinals' pitcher Bob Gibson was ejected by Umpire Ken Burkhardt. Burkhardt said Gibson was thrown out for leaving the bench and shouting at the umpires unnecessarily.

Mike Ryan's tie-breaking single in the seventh and Don Money's leadoff homer in the eighth enabled the Phils to withstand the Cubs, whose one-run rally in the ninth fell short.

Although Money is hitting only .214, Manager Frank Lucchesi believes he is ready to break loose.

"He's got that nice easy swing now," said Lucchesi. "Just like he had last year. He's really starting to stroke the ball."

Krajna almost spoiled Little's chance for revenge when he took the first set Friday. The top tennis player for New Paltz State in 1962, Krajna appeared to be in the driver's seat after the first set. But Little rebounded with the second set triumph and then thoroughly wiped out Krajna for the clincher.

In other action Friday, Little and men's doubles partner Dick Smith beat Tom Provenzano and Pete Writer, 6-2, 6-3, to enter the title round against the Zeeh brothers. That match was to have started at 1 p.m. today with the Zeehs the decided favorites.

At 11 a.m. today, Ruth Goldin and Jeff Davis were to meet Barbara Badalato and Rich Griffin in mixed doubles. The Goldin-Davis duo beat Marshall Lipton and Scrapy Hutton, 6-3, 6-4, to gain the final berth.

Ellnor Darling and Maggie Grover will meet Chris Miller and Judy Hevesi in the women's doubles finals at 3 p.m. this afternoon.

Tomorrow at 3, Badalato and Goldin square off in the women's singles finale. The other championship match tomorrow pits Bernie Neede and Belmont Towbin against Joe Hevesi and Little. First serve will be at 11 a.m.

$2,000 Woodstock Open Draws Crack Field

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

WOODSTOCK
Some of the finest golf talent in New York State will be on display when a record breaking field of 86 pros and amateurs compete for a $2,000 purse in the 34th annual Woodstock Open Monday.

First prize in the pro division will be worth $300, with the top amateur receiving $200 in merchandise. The tournament will be played at 18 holes in split shifts for the second time. Previously, it had been a 27-hole event.

The defending champion is an amateur—Bobby Heins of the Concord—who will be challenged by the most impressive array of linksmen ever to invade the scenic Woodstock layout. Heins won the 18-hole invitational in 1970 with a 2-under-par 68. John Doctor of Waconah Country Club at Dalton, Mass., led the pros with 69.

Toby Lyons of Burning Tree at Greenwich, Conn., a two-time Woodstock Open champion and former PGA tour player, heads the pro list which also includes several past winners, among them Armand Farina of Schenectady who won the classic seven times over the 27-hole route.

Mounting the challenge against Heins will be such renowned competitors as Ricky Spears of Port Jervis, who competed in both the U.S. Open and Masters this year; Leon Randall of Wiltwyck, all-time record holder with 96 for 27 holes; Ray Billows, seven-time New York State kippin out of Dutchess and Charles Murphy Jr. of Albany Country Club who holds the all-time Woodstock course record at 82.

Other top amateurs on hand will be John Parsons of Auburn; Heinz Mews of Dogwood Knolls; Ralph DeStefano of Dutchess, recent Wiltwyck Invitational winner; Bill Odenale of New Paltz, runnerup last year; past champion Bill Van Aken of Wiltwyck; Dave Bianchi of Amsterdam; Howard Pierson of Rockland and John B. Clancy of Mohawk.

Bill Reilly of Wiltwyck, a newcomer to the Northeastern PGA ranks, heads the list of pros who will challenge Lyons and Doctor. Former tournament winners include Alex Gerlak of Twaalfskill, Claude Young, ex-outstanding Brook pro now attached. Also set are Bob Mix of Albany Country Club; Gus Grygiel of Oneonta; Ed Boose of Colonie and Ralph Montoya of Normanside.

Sullivan County will be represented by three pros—Ed Gray of Tarry Brae, Billy McGovern of Loch Sheldrake and Pete Donnelly of Grossinger's.

Area business organizations and club members are assisting in the promotion of the tournament to insure the $2,000 overall purse. The list includes: National Bank of Orange and Ulster Counties; Rondout National Bank, Kingston Trust Company; Saugerties National Bank and Trust Company; Al's Seafood Restaurant of Phoenix; Kurt Enoch, a club member and Ulster Tool and Die.

The entry list:

PRO DIVISION

AMATEURS
Rick Spears, Port Jervis; Bobby Heins, Monticello; Leon Randall, Kingston; Ray Billows, Poughkeepsie; Charles Murphy Jr., Albany; Heinz Mews, LaGrangeville; Werner Kroll, Bill Van Aken, George Cosenza, all of Wiltwyck; Dave Bianchi, Amsterdam.

Also, Len Fancher, Windham; Bill Macnelli, Catskill; John Graden, Cohoes; John Parsons, Auburn; John B. Clancy, Mohawk; Ralph DeStefano, Dutchess; Bill Odenale, New Paltz; Clint Traver, Columbia.

Howie Pierson, Rockland; Ted Decker, Grant; Rick Barthel, Rondout; Archie D'Angelis, Dalton, Mass.; Cliff Stratton, Amsterdam; Bob Dinmore, Clifton Knolls; Bob Huh, Albany; Tom Haggerty, Rexford.

Joe Modica, Woodstock; Duncan Nesbitt, Oneonta; John R. Lewis, Dutchess; Peter Toia, Schenectady; Anthony Maragno, Pittsfield; Jeff Berry, Newburgh; Jim Koponski, Albany.

Kevin Coughlin Fires No-Hitter

KINGSTON

A no-hitter in one game, and a one-hitter and triple play in the other. That's what happened in the Babe Ruth League doubleheader Thursday night at Dietz Stadium.

The no-hitter was pitched by Kevin Coughlin, his second of the season, as Kiwanis stopped K.P.A., 5-0. Brian Sheilghtner hurled the one-hitter and his Lions mates helped him with the triple play in a 5-0 victory over Hurley.

Coughlin fanned twelve and walked just one in authoring his near-perfect ball game. Juan Cruz led the Kiwanis offensive attack with two hits and a pair of RBI's. Chris Klimer drove in two runs and Coughlin the other.

Chuck Bouton took the loss, striking out eight, walking five and allowing five hits.

A good catch and resulting relay throw from Joe Primo gave the Lions a triple play and helped Sheilghtner get his one-hitter. Primo and Brant Thomas each had two hits, and Bob Thomas knocked in two runs.

Al Freer was the losing pitcher.

Slipko Widens State Lead

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)

Mike Slipko of Niagara Falls holds a three-stroke lead, at 215, going into today's final rounds of the New York State Men's Amateur Golf Championship at Cavalry Club here.

Slipko, 22, fired a course record 66 Wednesday, but dropped to 76 Thursday, for a 36-hole total that was equaled by Don Allen of Rochester.

In Friday's rounds, however, Allen shot a 77 for a 219 total and third place.

Slipko carded a 73 Friday to keep the lead over Frank Gambetta, who shot a 70 and moved into second with a 218 total.

Rick Spears of Port Jervis was fourth at 220.

Starr's arm injuries have caused him to sit out much of the last three seasons. He had been reported as improving steadily but experienced the same pains Monday when he attempted to throw.

Dan Devine, the Packers' new coach, did hold out some hope for Starr's recovery. "I feel that Bart will play," said Devine, "though maybe not as soon as what I had hoped."

"This is only one of the many crucial situations we will face throughout the year. We have to close our ranks, suck in our guts and go to work."

The Packers' remaining quarterbacks are Zeke Bratkowski, a 39-year-old veteran sub who's been retired the last two years; Frank Patrick, a college quarterback whose pro experience has been mainly at tight end; and Scott Hunter, a rookie from Alabama.

Starr is scheduled for surgery at 8 a.m. Wednesday.

Elsewhere in the training camps, Greg Cook, who starred as a rookie quarterback for Cincinnati two years ago before injuring his shoulder, last season, flew to Cleveland to have his shoulder reexamined.

Cook said he felt severe pain in the shoulder while throwing the ball Thursday.

Don Maynard, the New York Jets' star wide receiver, reported to camp and participated in his first practice Friday, Maynard, sporting a

In Swim Races

RED HOOK

Stone Dock Swim Club broke 14 pool records and won 33 out of 35 events in defeating Red Hook Rec Park, 246-126, this week.

Dwight Dawenport, Kathy Sullivan and Dawn Sleight set the pace for Stone Dock.

Dawenport won the 25 yard freestyle and backstroke for 10 and under; Sullivan took the same events in the girls bracket; and Sleight was first in the 50 yard freestyle and backstroke for 15 and 17 year olds. All the wins were in record times for the Red Hook.

Barbara Skiba's win in the 25 yard breaststroke and the girls 200 yard freestyle relay team of Karen Walsh, Kelly Mosher, Sharon Thomas, and Paula Polesch were the only first place finishers for Red Hook.

The undefeated Stone Dock squad goes to New Hampshire for its next meet.

Lumber Lobby Fighting Sen. McGee

WASHINGTON — A massive and devious lobbying campaign mounted by the giant timber interests of the far West is threatening to give Sen. Gale McGee, D-Vt., the fight of his 13-year Senate career.

Since 1958, McGee has been fighting "clearcutting" — the complete razing of every tree in a particular area — as it is being carried out by private timber companies in the national forests.

Loggers have cleared steep slopes and created serious erosion problems. They have left behind gigantic trash piles. They have slashed logging roads through the wilderness and failed to reforest them.

This April, McGee introduced a bill to provide $2.5 million for a two-year study of clearcutting. The practice itself, McGee reasoned, should halt while the study commission gathered information.

That's when the storm broke. Within days, McGee began receiving letters bitterly denouncing him for "turning against" the foresters.

Many of the letters were exactly alike and had obviously come from the same typewriter. It turned out that Mark G. Mounsey, general manager of Wyoming Sawmills, Inc., had attached them to his employees' pay checks, complete with post-paid, pre-addressed envelopes. "Help Yourself!"

"I have drawn up a letter giving my impressions of Senator McGee," Mounsey informed his workers, "and if you would care to do the same, feel free to use some of my ideas."

Richard L. Hanlin, speaking for a large association of "mill owners, foresters, and loggers," ironically defended clearcutting as a workable method "to re-establish a new, vigorous forest."

A curious, let-the-fox-guard-the-henhouse logic was echoed time and again. "I feel it is important to voice my objections to Senate legislation on a technical matter such as clearcutting," wrote one company official. It should be "left in the hands of those experts who are in the best position to make that decision — the foresters," he said.

McGee has found that the U.S. Forest Service has consistently sanctioned clearcutting as a good "management policy" and has strongly supported the timber industry in its clamorous drive for more and more of the public's trees.

Suddenly thrust into the public spotlight by McGee's investigation, however, the Forest Service has belatedly discovered "indications of serious shortcomings" with clearcutting.

Army Ducks Blame

A secret Pentagon report on drug attitudes in the Army's famed 82nd Airborne Division concedes that narcotics is a serious problem but flatly absolves the Army and the Vietnam War of the blame.

The study is part of the Army's Project SODA, "Survey on Drug Attitudes." It is based on extensive questionnaires filled out anonymously by 375 members of the 82nd Airborne, a gung-ho outfit known as "America's Guard of Honor." It has had a major role in the Vietnam War.

"Drugs are being used on a continuing basis by well over a third of the division," says the report's number one conclusion.

But, it adds, "Vietnam service is not a significant influence on the drug abuse problem since so many of those entering the Army have already tried drugs, particularly in the younger age groups."

The poll was made under strict scientific guidelines to insure its accuracy. Because of its sensitive nature, nearly every page of the report is marked "For Official Use Only." Nevertheless, we have obtained a copy.

Third on Pot It reveals that nearly 60 per cent of the division had used marijuana and that about 37 per cent were still using it at the time of the poll.

This may not seem significant in view of the widespread general use of pot, but in probing the attitudes of marijuana smokers, the survey makes one major finding about marijuana.

It shows that as marijuana users increase their use of pot, they become more approving of hard-drug users.

Only 10 per cent of the non-users of pot said they "maintain a favorable opinion on an opiate narcotic user."

But among "experimental" pot smokers the rate of approval jumped to 25 per cent. And nearly 45 per cent of the habitual pot users looked favorably on hard-drug users.

The report showed that about 4 per cent of the division used opiate drugs at least several times a month and about 1.4 per cent were hooked.

The same percentage, 1.4, was found to be using hallucinogens such as LSD on a habitual basis and nearly 10 per cent were found to be using such drugs regularly, though not habitually.

Footnote: Rep. John Murphy, D-N.Y., has quietly visited Fort Bragg, N.C., home of the 82nd Airborne, to personally probe the drug problem. He also is visiting Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, and Miramar Naval Air Station, Calif., where "detoxified" narcotics users from Vietnam are being sent for treatment.

Helping Veterans

Servicemen returning to civilian life always have had special problems in seeking employment opportunities. The number of men involved is usually large, their employable skills generally low, and they face the additional obstacle of readjusting to a new regimen.

Vietnam veterans, now returning to civilian status at the rate of tens of thousands a month, are no exception. Eight of ten of them are seeking immediate employment in the economy with an unemployment rate hovering around 6 per cent.

The unemployment rate for veterans in the 20 to 24 age group is almost 15 per cent, and 600,000 veterans are drawing unemployment compensation. Many other are on welfare rolls.

Concern for their plight at the national, state and local community levels has produced more employment programs for veterans than at any time in the nation's history. All the states and hundreds of cities have instituted job-finding programs for veterans under a federal program launched last October.

These services were beefed up by a new program announced by the administration, which includes job counseling and training while the men are completing their military service. Many communities and industries are sponsoring their own job promotion programs for veterans.

The nation is demonstrating in many ways its concern for ex-servicemen, though the results in employment statistics are not as high as all concerned would like to see them.

State of the Economy

Since friends in Congress began booming Wilbur D. Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, for the Democratic nomination for president, he has become a politico-economist. In Ogden, Utah, he said the Nixon administration inherited inflation but bears full responsibility for the business recession, that unless the growth of the economy improves unemployment could rise to a high of 7 per cent.

At the same time, writing in The Washington Post, Herbert Stein of the Council of Economic Advisers, demurred. Stein said the U.S. economy is "alive and well." He pointed out that inflation rose until late 1969 or early 1970, when it reached 6 per cent. Since then the rate of rise in the consumer price index has fallen to about 4.5 per cent. This was made to happen by anti-inflationary policy.

OCEAN AFFAIRS—The importance of ocean affairs was emphasized when the Defense Department named Undersecretary of the Navy John W. Warner to be director of the newly established office of Ocean Affairs. He will represent the department in all international negotiations dealing with the subject, including the development of international law for ocean space.

Stein continued, the inflation rate is now lower in the United States than in most of the rest of the world. Of the 22 countries that belong to the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, only Belgium, Greece and Canada had a lower rate of consumer prices in the last 12 months.

As to unemployment, Stein said the rate rose to a high of 6.2 per cent as compared to 6.9 per cent in the 1949, 1954, 1958 and 1961 recessions. In this slowdown the unemployment rate for married men has fallen from 3.4 per cent to 3.1 per cent.

Stein is confident that the administration policy will succeed in improving the economic situation further, that economic forecasters of every persuasion agree that output, employment and the inflation rate will decline. He concludes with this assurance to the readers, "You have nothing to lose but your anxieties."

DRUNK DRIVERS—The Department of Transportation has been petitioned to require cities and states to treat drunk drivers for alcoholism. They would establish by the state, through compliance with the highway safety administration standards, a firm link between law enforcement and treatment. It may reduce the most serious cause of highway accident.

David Lawrence Says

Peace to Come Slowly

WASHINGTON —

Although the general impression for several days has been that the announcement of President Nixon's plan to visit Red China would bring an early peace agreement in Vietnam, there is no sign of such an accord being consummated. On the contrary, North Vietnam insists that its seven-point proposal still stands and that the United States must set a date for withdrawal of all its forces and stop supporting the Thieu government in Saigon before prisoners of war are released.

Also, the propaganda media of the Communist world keep on accusing the United States of "imperialism" and seem to ignore the new approach which President Nixon has made toward a better understanding and "normalizing" of China. The truth, of course, is that Communist governments work slowly. It takes time for procedures to be worked out, especially when they affect operations in countries allied with either Moscow or Peking. There scarcely has been an opportunity for a formula to be developed which could be placed before Hanoi as to how the peace negotiations can be a factor in improving relations between the United States and Red China.

As far as this country is concerned, its envoy at the peace conference in Paris is ready to make a cease-fire agreement and discuss all the points raised by North Vietnam so that a plan for the eventual withdrawal of all American troops can be presented and the position of each side thoroughly explored.

The expectation, to be sure, is that the Vietnam war can be ended soon and a settlement reached with Hanoi which will be satisfactory to Peking. It is assumed that emissaries from the United States will consult the Red China government from time to time in order that the viewpoint of the United States can be explained and the negotiations thereby expedited.

If peace were accomplished in Indo-China, the chances are that the Soviet Union would feel relieved, because it could then devote all of its attention to the serious situation in the Middle East. The United States is bound to play a significant role in this area, and a close relationship between Washington and Moscow is essential to the maintenance of peace in the Mediterranean.

Many people have been led to believe that, because of the announcement of the President's trip to Red China, the problems of Asia would be solved quickly and that the Peking government would begin to serve as an associate of the United States in ending such unhappy events as the war in Vietnam. But it will take time for the attitude of the peoples of Indo-China to be disclosed. Elections are soon to be held in South Vietnam, and there are divisions of opinion within that country as well as in North Vietnam. Once Hanoi has made it clear that it will sign a cease-fire agreement and negotiate the dates for the withdrawal of American troops and the return of the American prisoners of war, it may be assumed the war will no longer be the cause of friction in Southeast Asia.

While there has been much talk about the release of prisoners, no promises have been made by North Vietnam as to when they will be turned over to the American commanders. First of all, it must be made known exactly how many are held captive and who they are. There have been differences as to the number who are imprisoned by forces under Hanoi's control. It may be, of course, that some of those whose names will not appear on the lists furnished by the Communists will have been lost in action. But opportunities must be given for the prisoners themselves to be interviewed to determine whether they have at any time seen some of the missing individuals. This process may be lengthy, but it will be important to verify lists of missing men which the Americans will have for submission to the North Vietnamese before a final settlement can be made.

Not until a satisfactory arrangement has been made for the return of the prisoners, will American forces be withdrawn from South Vietnam. It is intended, too, to see that North Vietnamese units are pulled back beyond the demilitarized zone to the north so that South Vietnam will be free from the presence of any enemy troops. There are many details of this kind to be worked out, and that's why peace negotiations cannot possibly be completed in just a few weeks or even months.

Today it is split into 16,000 Flemish and 14,000 French-speaking students and professors, who have been thrust into two different worlds and who have severed all professional relations.

The professors use the same lecture halls but the coordination of the university's courses has stopped. In fact, the French-speakers are now being physically evicted. They have been ordered to move to a group of strange premises being built on Walloon territory.

The heart-rending breakup of Louvain even includes its world-famous library — and in an astonishingly ridiculous way. Unable to agree on how to divide the library's 1.6 million books in today's emotion-charged conflict, the administrators turned to the library's index records. They decided that volumes indexed under even numbers will stay with the Flemings at Louvain, those with odd numbers will go with the Walloons.

And we speak of America as a fractured country!

Henry J. Taylor Says

Ethnic Split Fractures Belgium

BRUSSELS — Distinguished American Ambassador John S. D. Eisenhower, the able son of a great father, is serving in a country as divided and shattered as a crock tossed off a Brussels tower. Yet, he is in the homeland of the Common Market, dedicated to Western European unity. Ambassador Eisenhower sees the irony of this on all sides.

The split dramatically reveals the myth that Belgium is a single nation merely speaking two different languages. And today the actual truth is Belgium's nightmare — and the nightmare of Ambassador Eisenhower as well.

For over a century, profiting from its industrialization, the French-speaking Walloon region ruled the country. The Flanders region was the backward, agricultural part. The Flemings were in every way secondary here — second class citizens, if you want to put it that way.

Now the power is reversed. Flanders is flourishing. The Walloon region is relentlessly sliding downhill. And the same unprecedented, revolutionary change — accompanied by a great deal of citizen bitterness — runs all through the government to which Ambassador Eisenhower is accredited.

Only a few years ago no knowing Belgian would have thought it possible that the premier would be Flemish. But Premier Gaston Eyskens is Flemish. Both presidents of the two parliamentary chambers are Flemish. The Flemings have captured a solid majority in each chamber. The governor of Belgium's national bank is Flemish. So is the chairman of the powerful Federation of Industries. Only the foreign ministry remains in Walloon hands. And all this dynamic progress of the historically secondary Flemings has brought panic to the outraged Walloons. Moreover, as the Flemings' birthrate far outstrips that of the Walloons, the Walloons fear that they are now condemned to a permanent minority status in a sea of Flemish ascendancy.

Belgium emerged from World War II with most of its industry intact — and promptly entered into a period of great prosperity. But the excesses backfired on the economy of the people. And in this country of coal mines, especially the millions of francs squandered on doomed, uncompetitive mines and other uneconomic Belgian industries paid off in a catastrophic recession in the Walloon region.

During the '50s Belgium became the country with the lowest growth rate in the Common Market. The paradoxes you still see here began then. The Belgians are the least traveled of all West Europeans. They read considerably less than the others. They have fewer bathrooms per household than even the far-poorer Italians. Yet, they eat more meat, bread, butter, etc., than any Common Market country.

When massive investment came in here from America and other foreign sources during the '60s it zeroed in on the Antwerp area — and Antwerp is in Flanders. The resulting recovery has made Antwerp today one of Europe's most thriving and expanding industrial centers while the Walloon area languishes further and further behind.

Ambassador Eisenhower spoke of the great University of Louvain. It is 340 years old, its students number 30,000, and it is certainly one of the most prestigious seats of learning in the entire world. But now Louvain is being split into two separate universities — a tragic example of the internal bitterness.

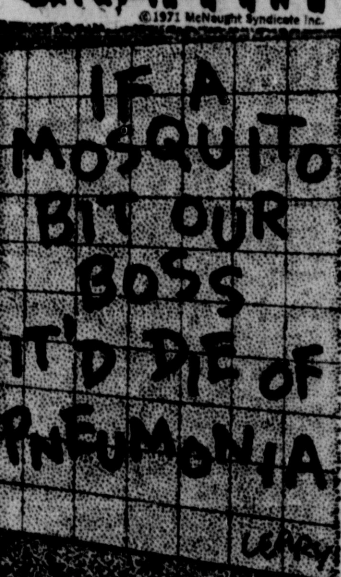

From the senate of the university on down, the French-speaking people always controlled August Louvain, although Louvain is in Flemish-speaking Flanders.

Off to Japan Jamboree

By JEAN F. DOLAN

KINGSTON—Two area youths are off to Japan by way of The Freeman and oodles of lightbulbs.

Sounds incredible but not the way Nelson Barnett and Steve Powers tell it. The two 14-year-olds left Thursday night for the 13th World Jamboree of Boy Scouts to be held in Japan through Aug. 11.

The planning for the trip began more than a year ago for both boys. In order to make the trip they each needed $825 which they earned themselves. Steve, a Freeman delivery boy for Home Delivery Service, made his route of 70 customers in Port Ewen pay off for him. He has had the route for the past two years and admits he did spend "a little now and then" for things other than the Jamboree savings bank.

"Barney", a relative newcomer to West Hurley, sold light bulbs to finance his trip. During the past year and a half he has peddled the globes door-to-door, meeting "an awful lot of nice people along the way." It took a heap of selling to mount that needed sum, but he did it.

The boys are part of the five-man Rip Van Winkle Council delegation and will make up the contingent of 38 for the north-eastern area at the World Jamboree. They bused out of Poughkeepsie Thursday to make an early morning jet flight out of John F. Kennedy International Airport. A total of 31 jets carrying 7,000 scout from all across the nation headed for Japan and jamboree. At 14, both boys are among the youngest to make the trip—most boys are older.

Both boys are avid scouts. Young Barnett said that one of reasons he worked so hard for the trip was that it "meant more scouting and a good opportunity to meet lots of people." Powers was motivated by the travel experience and the chance of meeting people. Both are looking forward to the friendship exchange.

And to help it along they are taking a variety of items for swap. Nelson is taking patches and stamps as his exchange items while Steve has packed stamps and souvenirs from local businesses.

Packing was one of the pre-trip chores. Weight limit was a total of 44 pounds in duffle and knapsack. Planning ahead the boys travelled light from state-side to leave plenty of room for remembrances of the Jamboree and the host country. Steve is hoping to pickup an aluminum tennis racket in Japan, but his mother has cautioned him not to be tempted to bring her back fancy silks.

The families of both the boys have gotten very involved in Jamboree preparations. Steve, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Powers of Park Lane, Port Ewen is the youngest of the family. He has two older sisters, Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Barnett Sr. of Normandy Court, West Hurley is also surrounded by girls at home. He has two older and one younger sisters.

Steve has been in scouting for seven years including his time in Cub Scouts. He is a member of Troop 26, Port Ewen. Nelson is a member of Troop 166, West Hurley and has been in scouting for four years.

A ninth grader at Myron J. Michael Junior High School last year, Steve plans to enter John A. Coleman High School as a sophomore this fall. He likes all sports and is anxious to go out for the track team in school.

Nelson will be entering ninth grade at Ontario High School in September. His favorite pursuits outside of scouting include art and basketball. He is taking along a camera to record in color slides his Japan adventure.

The camp-out aspects of the World Jamboree have a particular appeal for young Barnett. He has tent camped across the country with his family all the way to California.

In preparation for the Jamboree boys from throughout the area had orientation meetings on the Orient. Training included a weekend overnight near Saratoga at which time the Jamboree designated Troop 212 got acquainted, formed patrols and perfected camping skills. The Jamboree troop has special patches, neckerchiefs and slides commemorating the occasion. World Jamborees are held every four years, and bring together scouts from every nation.

Incidentally Steve's Freeman customers won't have to worry about their daily newspaper delivery—another scout from Troop 26 is filling in while he is away.

Youth in the News

Youth in the News this week salutes a foreign exchange student due to arrive in Ulster County in the next few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Gunther Meyer, California Quarry Road, Woodstock, and their daughter Lorie Meyer a junior at Ontario High, will be the "American parents" and host Leena Pyyna, of Ulvila, Finland, the Ontario Chapter AFS International Scholarships student for 1971-1972.

Leena was born in Helsinki in 1954. Her family has lived in Pori and Pomarkku but now live in Ulvila, a small medieval town, ten kilometers from Pori a town of 75,000.

She will be leaving her twin sister, Eva; her brother Seppo; Kilroy, a beautiful Shetland sheep dog, and their own island with a "smoke sauna" where the family spends the weekends. But Leena wishes to travel "to meet other people and understand them and their way of life."

While attending a Finnish-American seminar last year, Leena decided to apply to AFS International Scholarships in Finland to travel and study in the USA.

She will arrive in August and attend Ontario High Senior Class starting in September.

LEENA PYNNA

Kingston is starring in a tour of the Cole Porter musical, Anything Goes. Students from State University College at Fredonia and some Hamburg students and area adults under the namer of The Dee Jay Players are presenting the comedy, through the end of this month at various Fredonia locations.

The production is under the direction of Donald Jones a recent Fredonia graduate and is choreographed by Tom Doyle another recent alumnus.

Dean's list reports continue to pour in from college campuses.

Ulster County area residents named to the dean's list at the University of Rochester include Debra Denckshon of Box 86, Accord; Carol J. Warren of 9 South Chapel Hill Road, Highland and Karen S. Stern of 7 Broadview Road, Woodstock.

Kingston students listed are Jeffrey C. Parker of 77 Maiden Lane, Jeanne M. Penrose, 237 Millers Lane and Laszlo Slomovits of 30 Main Street.

Two area girls at the Albany Medical Center School of Nursing have been named to elective posts in organizations there.

Lynn Tucker was recently elected treasurer of the Student Association for the coming year. She is a junior in the coeducational school which has an enrollment of 260.

Lynn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald P. Tucker of 80 West O'Reilly Street, Kingston, and is a graduate of Kingston High School.

Nancy Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David G. Lewis of 65 Finger Street, Saugerties, was elected co-chairman of the Nursing Students' Association for the coming year. A graduate of LaSalle-Peru Township High School, she is a junior at Albany Medical School of Nursing.

TEEN SCENE Prices of Record

By LEI

The teen who would have been hard-pressed to spend five bucks in a week several decades ago can now spend it very easily (if not painlessly) in five minutes at the record counter of his or her favorite store. In fact, if it's a new release on a major label, a teen can spend a lot more than the five. Four major record labels have boosted their list prices from $5.98 to $6.98 recently, and where four major labels go, ten minor ones will soon follow, along with two dozen labels that nobody has ever heard of before.

Of course nobody really pays the list price (making it just one of the anomalies of the recording industry) but nasty things will happen to the discounts. Those now selling for $3.98 will go up to $4.98—unless some middleman decides to whittle the discount a little and boost the price to $5.39, blaming the record companies. Heads they win, tails your pocketbook loses, and that doesn't even include the sales tax!

Teens faced a similar price boost last year, and one the year before. Record companies may be faced by an unexpected confrontation. It would be a good time for it. Music happens to be in a state of transition. The strong central figure, such as Elvis in the 'fifties and the Beatles in the 'sixties, has not yet emerged for the 'seventies. Teens are buying, per head, fewer records than in past years, anyway. The price boost may drive many young people away from the most established music outlets—toward what?

All the latest price boost may do is to make more general and acceptable customs which are already hurting the established recording industry. One of these is unauthorized taping. When a new album by the Grand Funk Subway or the Freestone Five is released, it takes very little effort to find a radio station that is playing the whole disc. Given moderately clear reception and a moderately good tape recorder, a moderately good copy or the record can be made at a price that is hard to beat; free. In a variation, one teenager may buy a copy of the new record, and then a couple of hundred friends that he will suddenly acquire will tape it from his recording. With the popularization of cassettes and cartridges, the whole process is made, if not more legal, at least easier.

Or many teens are turning to the bootleg records, some of which are almost as good as the original product. (Others, of course, aren't.) Also available on bootleg disks are cuts not available commercially. And some teens wait until the records they want show up in the bargain bins at department stores—we all have seen the records we paid four dollars for four years ago, marked down to a dollar.

Those bins offer a hint, too, as to why the record companies find it necessary to practice the strange tribal custom of the annual Price Hike. Obviously, a record by the Rolling Stones, Tom Jones, or Johnny Cash will probably, or at least possibly, pay for the cost of materials, production, and promotion of the record. And, refreshingly often, a record that wasn't expected to set any records will become a recording sensation. But what about the hundreds of thousands of copies of "The Boston Pops Plays Libera," or "The Argyle Strings Play Great Television Commercial Themes" or "Twenty Famous Banjo Songs by the Kentucky Tub-Thumpers"? You see them in those bins next to the hard-to-push albums by the Cowbells, the Monkees, and Janis Ian.

Ironically, many of the unheard-of labels that take fliers on those bombs are subsidiaries of those major record companies that are upping their prices. The money lost on the clunkers eats up the profits from the gold hits. The plastic, cutting, and wrapping of a flop costs as much, roughly, as for a hit. Thousands of copies may be mailed to disk jockies who listen for five seconds, wince, and then use the disk for a frizbee, and the trash barrel for a target.

By showing more sensitivity toward the listening public, than less sensitivity toward establishing a tax loss, record companies could increase their profits without penalizing the music lover. Unauthorized copying does nothing to solve the problem, and deprives the artists, (who had little, if anything, to do with the price rise) of their royalties on the record.

UCCC Student Profile Revealed

STONE RIDGE—This year 87.5 per cent of the graduates at Ulster County Community College were residents of Ulster County, according to a profile of the 1971 graduates prepared by Registrar Eugene Turgeon.

The college graduated a record 312 students, with 273 being Ulster County residents.

The addresses of the other graduates was as follows: Greene County seven; Delaware County four; Dutchess, Westchester and King Counties, three each; Nassau, Suffolk, Orange and Erie Counties, two each; and Queens, Broome, Columbia, Ontario, Chenango, Saratoga, Washington, Putnam, Oswego and Oneida, one each.

Of the 312 graduates, 261 attended Ulster at least one semester as full-time students, while 51 graduates attended only as part-time students, according to the Registrar. Thirty-five of the graduates were veterans.

The attendance of the graduates at the College was spread over a eight-year period, since the Fall of 1963 when UCCC first opened its doors. The bulk of the graduates, or 177, first started attending Ulster in the Fall of 1969.

Twelve of the students began their studies at Ulster as late as the Fall of 1970, with these students having transfer credits from other colleges and universities.

Of the graduates, there were 148 who were Liberal Arts students. The Division of Engineering Technologies, including Electrical Technology, Engineering Science, Drafting and Mechanical Technology, had 26 graduates.

There were 22 graduates in the public service area that includes Community Service Assistant, Police Science and Correction Administration.

The Business Division had 69 graduates in the areas of Business Administration, Accounting, Retailing, Commercial Typist, Executive Secretarial Studies and Business Office Skills Technology.

There were 24 Nursing graduates and 12 in Recreation Supervision. First graduates in the new Data Processing program totaled seven, and there were four Medical Laboratory Technology graduates.

Time Is Now For Annapolis

WEST HURLEY

A call has been issued to all young men entering their senior year in high school who are interested in appointment to the U.S. Naval Academy to take instant action.

Morton Brett, Blue and Gold officer for the Ulster County area, said that any young man interested in applying for an appointment should write Senators Jacob K. Javits, James L. Buckley and Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. as soon as possible to request a nomination to Annapolis.

Interested men should submit also their applications to take the American College Testing Program (ACT) or selected College Entrance Examination Board (CEEB) tests. CEEB tests required are the Scholastic Aptitude Tests and the Achievement Tests in English composition and mathematics (Level I or Level II).

For further information on the different types of nominations that may be obtained and for answers to any questions about the Naval Academy, Brett may be contacted at 18 Ridge Drive, West Hurley, 12491.

CRAFTSMEN CITED—Ricky Durkin and Keith Lanier receive certificates as Craftsmen of the Year at a recent dinner meeting of the Mid-Hudson Industrial Arts and Vocational Teachers Association. Offering congratulations to the two Myron J. Michael Junior High School students are (L-R) Kurt Hoffman and R. Gilkey, MJM industrial arts teachers and Bernard Farrell, MJM principal. Farrell commended the students saying they were a credit to their teachers, school and community. (Hoderath photo)

Saratoga Trip Set

WOODSTOCK—Plans have now been finalized by the Woodstock Youth Council for a trip to Saratoga Performing Arts to see the rock group, The Who.

The trip will take place on Aug. 2 and is open to all ages of 12 to 17. There are only a limited number of tickets available, so interested teenagers should contact Youth Council members Richard Mellert or Ralph Perry as soon as possible.

The cost of the trip is $5. This includes the round trip bus fare. The bus will leave the Woodstock Library at 5:30 p.m. and return at approximately 1 a.m. The trip is chaperoned. Tickets are also available through the Youth Center in Woodstock.

Expanded summer hours are now in effect at the Youth Center, according to Youth Council Chairman Mellert. The Center is operated in the Woodstock Town Hall. It is open from 7 to 11 on Tuesday, Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday evenings. Admission is free. Activities include dancing, ping pong, and pool.

An evening swimming program at Swim O-Links is also being sponsored by the Youth Council. The program includes swimming and a band for dancing every Friday evening.

Aunt Sarah, I love you.

Remember my 10th birthday, when you gave me that funny piece of green paper and everybody made such a fuss over it. (Except me.) Frankly, it was a pretty disappointing present for a kid. I couldn't eat it, couldn't play with it, couldn't wear it—and Mom took it away from me practically the minute I got it.

And every birthday after that (and Christmas, too), you gave me another one of those Bonds, you called them. I thought you were pretty gooney.

At least, I never had to guess what I was going to get from good old reliable Aunt Sarah.

And what I got was good old reliable U.S. Savings Bonds.

What I didn't realize then was that you gave me a gift of security for the future. Thanks to you and those Bonds, I had extra funds for college. And they helped when I bought my first new car.

Next week, I'm giving my nephew, Harry, his first U.S. Savings Bond. I know the kid is gonna think I'm some kind of nut. But, someday...

Bonds are safe. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Tax may be deferred until redemption. And always remember, Bonds are a smart way to save.

Take stock in America. Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

Miss Laura Haynes Weds Leonard J. Morgan July 10

Miss Laura Haynes, Box 254, Route 28, Kingston, became the bride of Leonard J. Morgan, Box 31, Willow, on Saturday, July 10 at 2 p.m. at Plattekill Church, Mt. Marion.

The Rev. John A. Needham officiated at the double ring ceremony and traditional wedding selections were provided. White bridal daisies and assorted roses decorated the altar.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louie Haynes, Box 254, Kingston, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Morgan of Willow.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an empire, A-line gown of organza with Chantilly-type lace covering the bodice and cameo neckline. Matching lace shaped the cuffs of the gown. Sequin appliques accented the panels. A tiered lace how held her cathedral mantilla with matching lace and she carried a stylized cascade of white miniature carnations and yellow roses.

Karen Costello of Long Island was maid of honor in a pin striped Nile green gown styled with a high neckline and an empire bodice. The long puffy sleeves were trimmed with lace. Miss Costello carried a colonial nosegay of Nile green carnations and baby's breath with white ribbons.

Attendants were Linda Jemansic, Poughkeepsie; Kathy Ligouri, Poughkeepsie; Marylou Terpening, Kingston; and Penny Haynes, sister of the bride, Kingston. They wore chiffon rainbow colored gowns of pink, maize, blue and orchid. The gowns featured high necklines, long sleeves and empire bodices, trimmed with flowered designs. The attendants carried colonial nosegays of miniature carnations and baby's breath in colors to match their gowns and trimmed with white ribbons.

Donna Costello, Long Island, served as flower girl. She wore an aqua gown similar in styling to the other attendant's and carried a white fireside basket of multi-colored carnations and baby's breath.

Joseph Costello of Long Island was best man. Billy Ligouri, Poughkeepsie; Danny Hayes, Long Island; Tom Ligouri, Poughkeepsie; George Connell, New Jersey; and Ted Haynes, brother of the bride, Kingston, served as ushers.

Two hundred guests attended a reception at Highlands Sportsman's Club, Highlands.

For her wedding trip to Memorytown U.S.A. and Pocono Mountains, Pa., the bride selected a baby blue pant suit with white accessories and a baby pink rose corsage.

The bride is a 1970 graduate of Kingston High School. Her husband is a 1965 alumnus of Ontario Central High School and served two years with the U.S. Army earning the rank of Sp-4.

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan will reside in Willow.

Closed Mondays

HOLY MOSES, heard exclusively on RCA records and tapes, brings a rare brand of rock to the Woodstock Playhouse this coming Monday, July 26 at 8:30 p.m.

Holy Moses for Playhouse

It's a grey day in New York City: it's overcast in California; it's raining in Woodstock. On any given day these facts are true or false. And on any given day, RCA Records' Holy Moses may be in any of the above places. Then again, they may not—or they could be in all three spots—split up for the time being.

"When we first got together as a band," says group leader Billy Batson, "most of the boys were living in tents in Woodstock. Sleeping out in summer and winter."

But it gets cold in Woodstock, so they moved into a house Batson had rented. Not quite hitting it off with the landlord, they hit the streets again, eventually got another house, eventually found themselves homeless again.

A Revolving Lifestyle

"It was like a revolving door," says Batson. But, in the midst of all that revolving, the group played every cafe in Woodstock, adding to their reputation as a high decibel rock and roll band, while raising an eyebrow or two by outranking most of the patrons.

Still, Holy Moses has a unique personal history in that the five musicians involved all traveled their own individual underground railroad to

Dear Abby

Godmother Prospect
Getting Turned Off

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: How can a person tell a friend that she doesn't want to be the godmother of a child who is due to be born in a few months?

At first I was flattered when asked, but over the months I have been told what I, as a godparent, am expected to give my godchild, materially. It has been suggested that I start a bank account when the child is born and to add to it constantly until the child is ready for college. Also, I've been told that the godparent remembers his godchild on all gift-giving occasions such as birthdays, Easter, Christmas, etc.

All of this I would have probably done on my own, but to be told I must do so, rubs me the wrong way.

I have already gone overboard with gifts and favors for the parents and would probably have done so for their child, but I don't want to be taken advantage of. So how do I get out of being a godparent without causing hard feelings?

RELUCTANT GODMOTHER
DEAR RELUCTANT: I can't guarantee that there will be no "hard feelings," but if you want to "get out of it," don't offer any "excuses" to justify your change of heart. Simply state that you have decided against accepting the "honor." (P.S. You sound like a big-hearted "softie" to me.)

DEAR ABBY: Our son has confessed to us that last summer he went to a public health physician and was treated for venereal disease. The boy was only 15 at the time! The doctor who treated our son assured the boy that he would not tell his parents.

I think parents have a right to know what is going on with their minor children. Can we sue this doctor?

PARENTS OF A MINOR
DEAR PARENTS: Sue him? You should thank him!

DEAR ABBY: The hassle about who should wash out the bathtub, reminds me of a sign we used to have over the bathtub in our college dorm. It read: "A pessimist washes the tub BEFORE she bathes. An optimist washes the tub AFTER she bathes. A lady washes the tub BEFORE and AFTER she bathes."

Respectfully,
MRS. B. FINDLAY, O.

DEAR MRS. B.: And so does a gentleman.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Old Fire Laws Blamed for Hotel Deaths

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Lax and outmoded fire laws are to blame for the downtown Howard Johnson's Motor Hotel blaze that killed six persons and hospitalized more than a dozen others Friday, the Fire Department said.

Five guests and a security guard choked to death in the blinding, poisonous smoke that filled rooms and hallways on the 12th floor.

The dead were Dr. and Mrs. John R. Finch, both 39, of Houston; their two sons, Rodney, 12, and Monte, 9; Mrs. Louis tarp of Shreveport, La., and security guard Joseph Gauthier, 25.

"Kids were choking in the hallway and lying on the floor," another security guard, Charles Simon, said. "I picked up a couple of them and carried them back to the elevator and I hollered to Joe to come on, the smoke's going to get us."

"And he didn't answer me back. I kept hollering and I waited until I couldn't wait no more. Everybody was choking up so I went and took the people downstairs in the elevator and I went back up. I went to try to look for him again and I couldn't find him."

Fire Chief William McCrossen blamed fire laws.

"All these laws need revision and updating," he said. "We have particular problems in the high rise buildings."

He said the hotel had neither a sprinkler system nor a good fire warning system which could have made possible the rescue of more guests.

Authorities said there was a 15-minute delay before they were notified of the fire.

"First of all," McCrossen said, "we need early detection. It has to be supervised—meaning it has to go to a central alarm system where the Municipal Fire Department can be notified and respond quickly."

Police Seeking City Thief

KINGSTON
City police are seeking a man who allegedly stole $280 in cash and $48 in checks from Dwyer Brothers' Paint Store at 608 Broadway late Thursday afternoon.

Police officials said that a man described as a tall Negro wearing a blue shirt, blue trousers, sun glasses and a panama hat entered the store and asked for a type of merchandise the store did not carry.

Later, when Matthew Jordan, an employee of the store, was mixing paint, the man allegedly stole the money and made his escape. The investigation is continuing.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This Sunday is a day when you can show your devotion to and affection for others by serving them in the manner which they like the most. But it is also a good time to concentrate upon putting details in order in connection with your vocation; you can do a good job now.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Improve surroundings so your life will be easier and more pleasurable at home in the future. Show affection for family. Get into the activities they approve of.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Good day for recreations which you and your mate have enjoyed together in the past. Don't gamble on anything unless you are convinced it is a sure thing. Try not to get too bed too late.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Listen to what kin have to suggest so your home becomes more comfortable, attractive and efficient. Strive for harmony that has been lacking in the recent past. Don't argue foolishly.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Attend philosophical programs that appeal to you in the morning, then be with persons you like for amusement. Get personal correspondence out of the way. Come to the point quickly.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) There are small details in connection with property which require attention today, so handle them early. A good day to write checks for pressing bills you have been putting aside. Don't waste time doing nothing.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Try to improve your health in the best way you know how so you will be a more dynamic person. Then see those persons of whom you are most fond. Plan for the future.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have to take a little time for the meditation necessary to make your life smoother and more harmonious. Then sit down with one who has your interests at heart and come to an understanding. Evening is best time for amusement.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Anything you wish to do that directly brings you into discussions with important persons is fine since you can make excellent plans for the future. Accept invitations to parties provided they are the kind you like.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Gain the favor of a bigwig who can give you the backing you need for outside projects. Ideal day to dress your best and make the right contacts, both in business and socially. Don't do too much talking.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You are able to learn a great deal today so listen carefully and try to understand. Make those plans for travel, entertaining you have in mind. Meet the fascinating people who appeal to you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are able to accomplish much now if you let your intuitions guide you. Plan to do those things that please mate greatly. Avoid one who is a troublemaker and could disturb the fine harmony at home.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) A good day to see what it is that a higher-up expects of you and decide how best to meet such expectations. Plan new activities with others that can be mutually profitable in the future. Avoid unnecessary expenditures today.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those young people who from early years wants everything around him or her kept in a most precise, neat and orderly fashion. Be certain to give the finest training in right principles and ideas early so that the full potential here can be realized. Otherwise this youngster could get so hemmed in with some small project that it would be impossible for him or her ever to get out of it, or make much of the life. Public service is fine.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Audie Murphy was the most-decorated American hero of World War II. The World Almanac recalls that at age 20 he had received 24 U.S. medals, including the Medal of Honor, and was credited with having killed about 240 enemy soldiers. A Texas farm boy, Murphy enlisted in the U.S. Army in June, 1942, and served valiantly in Italy and France.

PRISCILLA'S POP

City Beat

By HUGH REYNOLDS
Freeman City Hall Reporter

THE NEWS THAT another housing complex was in the planning stages for Kingston didn't exactly solicit cries of "stop the presses" at The Daily Freeman this week.

As the subsequent article noted, housing complexes, at least plans for housing complexes, are nothing new in the Colonial City. In fact, there are more than 850 on the drawing board, an almost incredible figure considering we have only about 300 right now.

While interest has not really begun to pick up on the Glen Street proposal aired on Wednesday, the Corbetta proposal for Uptown aired on June 29, continues to be a hotbed of debate among city officials.

One city official who'd like to get in the swim of things is John Heitzman, the First Ward alderman. Most of the publicity has centered on Cliff Sinsabaugh's howls of lack of communication on the proposal. Sinsabaugh, chairman of the Urban Renewal Committee, is a key figure in the future of the Corbetta deal, but Sinsabaugh lives in the 10th Ward. The project is planned for the First Ward.

HEITZMAN, IT TURNS out, thinks the Corbetta proposal to build a 10-story apartment complex at Hurley and Washington Avenues, "is a great idea."

There has been some criticism on the height of the building, some 90 feet, according to Corbetta's specifications. Heitzman, who obviously has done some homework on the project, points out that the county office building is 78 feet high and figures that for another 12 feet the city gets four more stories.

The main bone of contention, however, is the tax setup. Corbetta is asking for a form of tax abatement where he would be assessed on his gross rents, not on the value of the property.

Corbetta's argument is that if he's taxed on the property value he will have to charge rents in excess of his projected $150 a month average.

Statistics from the federal census conducted last year indicate that Kingstonians, on an average, don't make all that much money per year, say around $7,500. Rents of $200 a month or more would be out of the range of most of the residents. For that matter, $150 a month wouldn't be cheap.

Assuming the height of the building isn't that big an issue, it comes down to a choice for city fathers between the short term view of a nice chunk of taxes and the long term view of providing housing within the budget of most of the residents.

THE LARGER QUESTION IS: Just where is the city heading? Traditionally, Kingston has been a city of home owners, single family and two family houses. The fact that a city of 25,000 people has only 300 units of apartments, most built in the last ten years, is an indication of that. The city seems to be heading toward more and more apartment dwellings. Perhaps building single family homes doesn't make financial sense anymore.

We're not sure which way the city is heading, but we get the uneasy feeling that the city government isn't all that sure, either. Each rezoning proposal (and most are for apartments or for variances to convert older homes into apartments) seems to be taken on its own merit in its own time with no thought of the overall future of the city.

Only now are fears being raised of "over apartmentizing" with more than 850 apartments on the drawing boards.

It may not be generally remembered, but city officials have been working with state officials for the past several months on a revision of the entire zoning map of Kingston.

Perhaps a special bi-partisan mayoral commission to review the recommendations of city officials and perhaps propose a few of their own, might be in order at this point. Topsy, we don't need.

GOODBYE, AARON—County Democratic Chairman Aaron Klein made official publicly what had been surmised privately for several months, last week: he won't be seeking reelection to his post as the county's top Democrat.

Klein, we are told, would like to see Tom Lyle, former city chairman, succeed him. Klein and Lyle have worked together for years, particularly when Lyle was city clerk and Klein was corporation counsel, a post the latter still holds.

It's not going to be automatic, by any stretch of the imagination, the grapevine says. Jimmy McCordle, former city chairman, who now operates out of Hurley, is expected to make a strong run.

McCordle, we are informed, has the support of most of the Woodstock and Sangeries delegations, two of those rare areas out in the country where Democrats are getting elected with any regularity. The other is Esopus. The Klein forces should run strongly over there. There's a guy named Louie with some influence over there . . . Louie Klein, Aaron's son.

WARD TALK—Jim Gorman didn't make it in the Ninth Ward Democrat caucus against Phil DeCicco last month, losing 15-10, so now he's declared for alderman on the Liberal line.

Democrats we talked to say it won't make much difference, Ed Roux, the Republican incumbent has had it. The Republicans don't see it all that way, they think Gorman's candidacy will cinch it for their man.

Ed Gleason is running as a Conservative in that ward which makes it a four-way affair. Keeping in mind that Roux only won by five votes in 1969 makes it look like a warm autumn in the Ninth.

Over in the 13th, the Democrats are trying to talk Bill Bodenweber into a run against Bernie Sims, the incumbent Republican. Bodenweber, a former alderman from that area and a one-time candidate for the Demo nod for mayor (1965) has the experience but from what we hear, isn't too keen on signing up for another (combat) hitch on political duty.

The Demos would hate to leave that line vacant. It's alderman-at-large Bob Gallo's home ward and the former home ward of Mayor Koenig. Both were elected twice from that ward as aldermen.

The Committee on Vacancies has only until July 29 to name a candidate.

Sadat Gives Egypt's Views

By United Press International
Egypt will continue its contacts with the United States, but there must be a solution to the Middle East crisis—peaceful or military—by the end of this year, President Anwar Sadat said Friday.

Sadat told a National Congress of Egypt's only legal political party, the Arab Socialist Union, that U.S. diplomat Michael Stern brought no new proposals with him on his recent visit to Cairo.

He said Washington has asked for more time to consider Egyptian terms for an interim settlement and reopening of the Suez Canal and to confer with Israel. Egypt was willing to wait, he said, but warned that time is running out.

"Even if we have to lose a million martyrs, 1971 will not go by without the battle being resolved," Sadat said.

Sadat also deplored the current upheavals in other Arab capitals because, he said, they have broken down the Arab world's solidarity against Israel.

He cited the fighting in Jordan between King Hussein's army and the Palestinian guerrillas last week and this week's coup and counter-coup in the Sudan, one of Egypt's three SAIGON (UPI)—The South Vietnamese command today reported government troops had uncovered a major arms cache just below Fire Base Fuller near the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) amid indications the Communists are getting ready for another attack against the mountaintop outpost.

Meanwhile it was another day of inactivity for two South Vietnamese task forces pushing through former Viet Cong sanctuaries in Cambodia north and west of Saigon.

On the political front, President Nguyen Van Thieu formally announced he will run for re-election in the Oct. 3 election and said former Premier Tran Vang Huong would be his running mate.

Military spokesmen said the Communist arms cache near Fire Base Fuller was discovered in an area where North Vietnamese units had secretly built 20 new bunkers in the last few days. The South Vietnamese found 100 82mm mortar rounds, 150 B40 rockets, 100 grenades and hundreds of rounds of 12.7mm anti-aircraft shells. The cache was found 1 1/2 miles from the base.

American B52 bombers pounded the area between Fuller and the DMZ with 180 tons of bombs Friday night and early today.

Fuller is a vital outpost at the northwest corner of the L-shaped DMZ defense line, stretching 25 miles each to the coast and 10 miles south to Fire Base Sarge, an anchor point overlooking the Quang Tri River Valley.

Possession of the entire line is necessary if South Vietnamese troops are to be able to halt North Vietnamese infiltration down Highway 9 and the Quang Tri Valley into coastal lowlands, South Vietnamese generals said.

Fuller was overrun by the Communists last month then changed hands five times before being abandoned and then rebuilt by the South Vietnamese.

Reports from the Saigon government operation in Cambodia said there was no action Friday or early today, the sixth day of the cross border drive.

The operation is aimed at disrupting any new Communist supply corridor into the Saigon area and the Mekong Delta where new offensives are feared during the presidential campaign in the autumn.

Presiding Judge Discusses Medina Trial

FT. McPHERSON, Ga. (AP) — Lt. Col. Kenneth Howard, who will preside at the court-martial of Capt. Ernest Medina, says he thinks the Medina case will be "the Yamashita case" all over again.

In an interview Friday, Howard referred to a Japanese general who was tried by the United States after World War II for atrocities committed by his troops in the Philippines.

Medina, 34, goes on trial Monday charged with the murder of 102 Vietnamese civilians at My Lai in March 1968. The Army has said he is held responsible for the deaths and is not accused in separate charges of killing two victims himself.

In explaining the charges against Medina, Army Prosecutor William Eckhardt said that Medina is a "principal" to the crimes. Under the Uniform Code of Military Justice, a "principal" is one who "counsels, commands, or procures another to commit an offense

That person, said Eckhardt, "is as guilty of the crime as if he had committed it." The prosecutor declined to say whether the Army will prosecute Medina for ordering the massacre at My Lai or for failing to stop it.

Howard said he felt "the approach in Medina's case will be the Yamashita case all over."

The Japanese general, Tomoyuki Yamashita, was hanged after being convicted of failing to take sufficient measures to stop atrocities committed by his troops, although he was not with them.

The maximum sentence Medina could receive is life in prison.

Howard also presided at the trial of Sgt. Charles Hutto, who was acquitted of charges arising from the My Lai operation.

Howard, 47, won the Legion of Merit for his work as a military judge in Vietnam.

He said he had benefited considerably from procedures in the Lt. William L. Calley Jr. court-martial. Calley, one of Medina's platoon leaders, was convicted in March of 22 murders at My Lai and sentenced to life. His case is under review.

"This case is going to go much smoother and faster than Calley's," Howard said. Calley's court-martial, which ran 4 1/2 months, was given a lengthy delay for a sanity hearing, an issue which has not been brought up in the Medina case.

GOP CONVENTION SITE—The Republican National Committee picked San Diego for the 1972 Republican National Convention and the site for the convention will be the San Diego International Sports Arena, which is located about five miles north of the downtown section of San Diego (shown in skyline at top of photo). Laird, Administration Disagree Over Lockheed

WASHINGTON (UPI) —De-off debate on the subject, A able" because they showed fence Secretary Melvin R. Laird has split with the White House over the means of providing a government guarantee for a loan to bail out the financially-troubled Lockheed Aircraft Corp.

Laird told a news conference Friday he could not support a bill before Congress that would authorize up to $2 billion in government-backed loans to prop up firms whose collapse would damage the economy.

Laird said he could back a bill that would aid only Lockheed, which needs a $250 million loan to prevent its bankruptcy. President Nixon supports the broader $2 billion bill.

"There is a difference within the administration," Laird said. The development further clouded a debate over the issue as the Senate scheduled an unusual Saturday session to prepare the way for a vote Monday on an attempt to cut closure petition has to be on the record one legislative day before a vote to end debate can be taken.

Laird said he fully supports the position of Defense Undersecretary David M. Packard, who told congressional committees this week he opposed the broader bill because it would encourage defense contractors to become sloppy in bidding on defense projects, knowing they would be aided if they ran into financial trouble.

Reports the former industrialist would be forced to quit because of his differences with the White House.

Opponents of the Lockheed loan guarantee greeted Laird's statement with glee. Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., said it was "a new and startling development."

Another opponent, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said Laird's remarks were "remarkable" because they showed "one of the top two or three officials of this administration" would break with the White House.

Backers of the loan, however, contended the Laird statement made no difference to them. They said they would proceed with the $2 billion bill, which was approved by committees in both the Senate and House.

"There are all kinds of ways you can interpret the secretary's statement," said Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., Republican manager of the measure.

Laird may have been saying that a Lockheed-only bill would set a precedent for future "ad hoc" action by Congress in behalf of troubled corporations, Tower said.

There was general agreement among supporters and opponents that the move to cut-off debate, requiring a two-thirds vote, would fail Monday but might succeed on a later attempt.

GOP Heeds Nixon Advice

DENVER (UPI)—The Republican National Committee took President Nixon's advice Friday and voted to hold the 1972 GOP National Convention in San Diego, Calif., despite complaints of a lack of hotel space in the city.

Nixon favored the San Diego site because of its proximity to the Western White House at San Clemente, 75 miles away.

The Democrats will hold their convention at Miami Beach.

The committeemen also discussed ways of getting more women, young people and Negroes to vote Republican.

The leaders recommended that state conventions select equal numbers of men and women delegates to the 1972 convention, and include persons under 25 in their delegations "in numerical equity to their voting strength within the state."

The committee said it also has a "numerical equity" proposal for minority racial representation, but will not be ready to present it until next December.

Committee member L. E. Thomas of Florida—who favored a Miami Beach convention—opposed San Diego because of lack of hotel space and because he said there are more "two-legged nuts" in California than any other state, and they are ready to demonstrate.

Thomas said as a Marine he spent all the time he wanted at Camp Pendleton, near San Diego.

"I'm afraid that's where my room might be," he said.

Violence When Necessary . . . Kahane After Sentence

NEW YORK (UPI)—Rabbi Meir Kahane, following a $5,000 fine and five-year probation sentence for conspiring to make bombs said Friday his Jewish Defense League will use violence when necessary and will buy guns.

"Every Jew a .22" will be the new motto, Kahane said at a news conference following the sentencing. He said the JDL is negotiating to buy .22 caliber rifles and league members will be trained to use them for self protection.

U.S. District Judge Jack B. Weinstein expressly prohibited Kahane, 38-year-old founder of the JDL, from having anything "to do directly or indirectly with guns, bombs, dynamite and other weapons" as part of his probation.

"The court is not enjoining the defendants' free speech or peaceful picketing," Weinstein said. "They can say what they wish and praise or denounce as it pleases them . . . But their activities must be carried out without violence."

"In this country, at this time, it is not permissible to substitute the bomb for the book as the symbol of Jewish manhood."

Weinstein said if the terms of probation are violated Kahane and the two other JDL members sentenced Friday could go to jail for the full terms.

"Violence is a part of our life," Kahane said. "Sometimes it is necessary."

Kahane was asked who decides whether violence is necessary. He replied, "We do."

Kahane was greeted by a cheering crowd of some 200 persons when he left the courthouse. They carried him on their shoulders to a nearby park where he addressed them briefly.

ANTIQUE CARS (this one's circa World War I) will be seen in profusion on the streets of Rhinebeck throughout the day on July 31. If you take the tour of stately, old homes there that day, you'll be treated to a return trip from the tour to the fairgrounds in a jalopy of ancient vintage or you might want to opt for an old-fashioned buggy ride instead.

"POCAHONTAS," Rhinebeck's own famous old hand pumper, will be among the many attractions of "A Day in Old Rhinebeck," the festive happening that salutes the past on Saturday, July 31 at the Dutchess County Fairgrounds.

'A Day in Old Rhinebeck'—Salute to the Past

Taking over the Village of Yesteryear at the Dutchess County Fairgrounds on Saturday, July 31, will be a joyous salute to bygone days and the more leisurely pursuit of life that reigned then.

They're calling it "A Day in Old Rhinebeck" and it's being sponsored by the Rhinebeck Historical Society. The day-long festivities will run from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m.; feature a burgeoning program with appeal for all ages.

High on the list of happenings will be a tour of old houses in the picturesque river town, and those who take the tour will ride to their destinations by horse and buggy. After completing their tour of residential heritage, they'll be returned to the fairgrounds via buggies or antique cars.

Displays will abound on the fairgrounds. Antique cars of yesteryear, carriage and wagons of the past, and "Pocahontas," the famous old hand pumper engine dating back more than a century and owned by the Rhinebeck Fire Department, will all be highlighted in colorful exhibits.

Those Forgotten Arts

Adding to the yesteryear flavor will be crafts displays and demonstrations of the almost forgotten arts of spinning, weaving, candle making and other homey pursuits.

To summon up the music of the past, the Rhinebeck American Legion Band will be on hand for a concert and, during intermission, the Beekman Squares (a barbershop quartet in the old style) will entertain. For a stirring conclusion, Old Glory will be lowered to the ancient music of the Fife and Drum Corps.

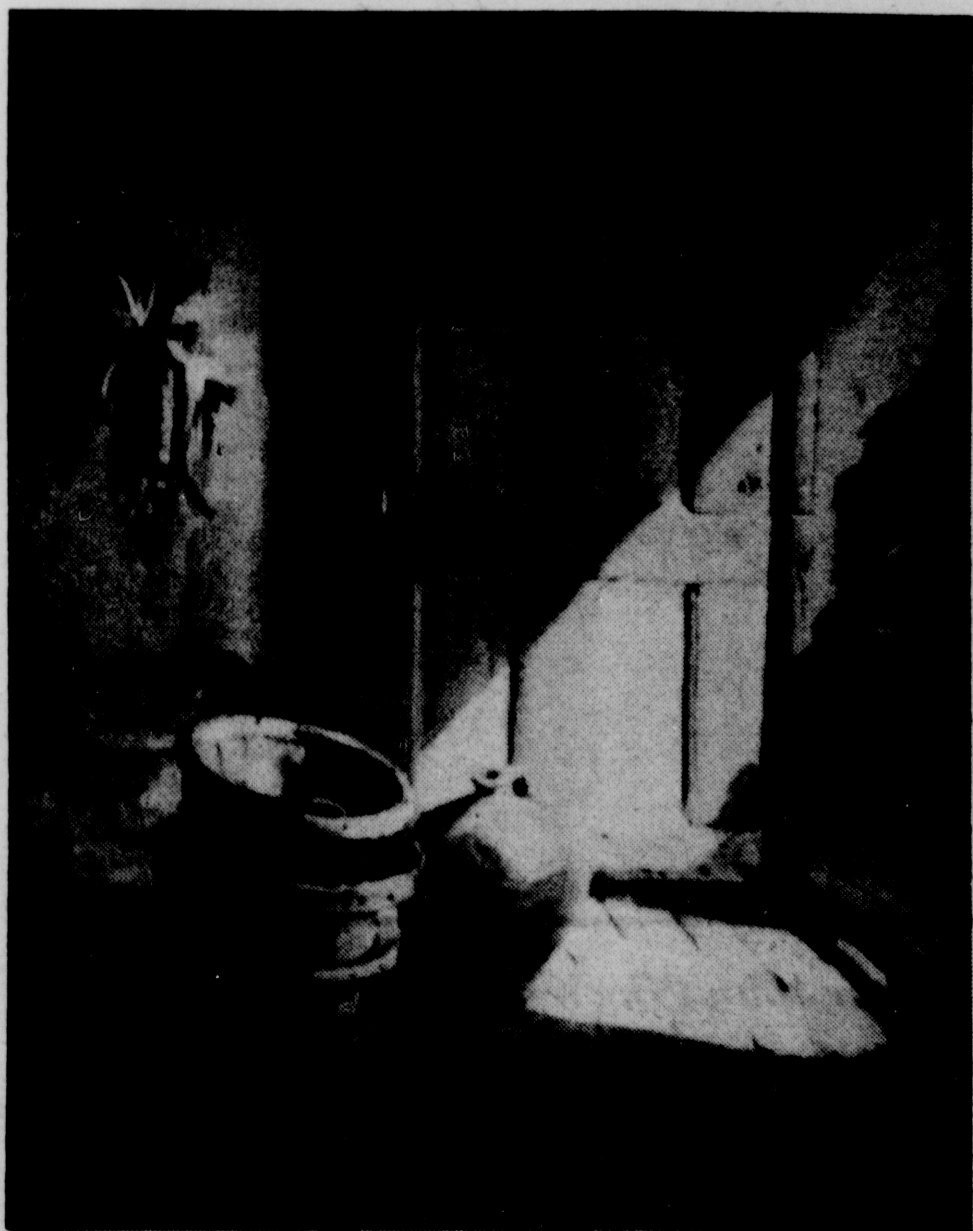

The day will offer pleasant browsing among the fair's Village of Yesteryear buildings, all of which will be open for the big event. And you'll want to take along some loose change to buy home made cookies and tea breads in the farm kitchen.

Plan your browsing ahead so you don't miss Sam's Saloon, Lloyd's Country Store, the Apothecary Shops, the old schoolroom, and the vintage barn with its intriguing exhibits of antique farm machinery.

You can even pack a picnic lunch and take the whole family. A pleasant picnic area will be set up for the occasion, and a colorful ice cream truck will make the rounds throughout the day, in addition to all the other food and refreshments available.

Should the rains come July 31, "A Day in Old Rhinebeck" will be held on Aug. 1 instead.

MOOD OF LONELINESS pervades painting of a seemingly deserted house by artist Joan Howe, whose own home in Altamont, near Albany, is a 200-year-old farmhouse. Crumbling walls, battered door, baskets and jugs used rarely today make up this still life glowing with color and mood.

Evoking Nostalgia In Color & Light

The strongest possible sense of nostalgia is evoked in these paintings. Sun-bathed porches with the look of another century, attics filled with memorabilia, wood-stoved kitchens of the past, the passage of time poignantly recalled in the inanimate objects along life's trail.

Like the illustrious Wyeth family which has produced one generation of painters after another, the Howe family, too, has a long heritage of art. Joan Howe, daughter of famous illustrator and landscape painter, Victor C. Anderson, is a third generation artist. And her one-man show, opening at Woodstock's Lewis Gallery on Saturday, July 31, speaks eloquently for her unusual color sense and unexcelled ability to paint light and mood.

TEMPO was treated to a preview of the show, opening with a reception at Lewis Gallery July 31 and running through Aug. 9; found the psychological reaction to Joan Howe's work overwhelming.

Of the Dimly Remembered

Many of her paintings are like scenes photographed from the past and summon up a sad nostalgia for days long gone and objects only dimly remembered. In her crumbling houses or barns, forgotten toys, antique corner cupboards, mellowed-by-time chests and chairs, there is the lonely lure of small town and country America. And, yet, almost startling in their contrast, are her canvases of sea, clouds and boats—waterscapes that sparkle with life in pastel color, in reflections in calm water, in sails against the horizon.

Joan Howe is an artist with the ability to paint continuously at a high level of excellence. With a talent for observation and perception, she has produced canvases of such beauty that her reputation in the art field hinges on the high standards she has set for herself and attained.

Increasingly these days, her paintings are being hung alongside those of the masters. Last year she was commissioned to paint the Little White House in Kew West for presentation to former President Harry S. Truman. It now hangs in the Truman Library in Independence, Missouri.

Also attesting to her excellence is a long list of awards, as well as one-man and group shows throughout the U.S. And the fact that she received a special invitation to become a member of the Fifty American Artists, Inc., of New York City, an honorary organization of painters whose annual spring exhibit at Manhattan's Salmandi Club is a prestigious event.

Grandfather to Granddaughter

As the daughter of a famous painter and illustrator who exhibited regularly at the National Academy of Design—and the granddaughter of Frank Anderson, who gained fame as a painter of the Hudson River School—Joan Howe might logically be expected to have artistic talent.

She has indeed, but her originality and individualism are not copied from here forebears. In her use of color to create mood and depict light, and in her highly skilled draughtsmanship, she has created a style all her own with sensitive colorations that make

17—THE DAILY FREEMAN, JULY 24, 1971

THE HIGH AND THE MIGHTY have always joined in the fun at Woodstock's Library Fair over the years and lent their acknowledged talents to its success. In this 1946 photo, Ham Fisher in dark shirt (creator of the popular "Joe Palooka" comic strip), and John Striebel (on Ham's right and creator of his own successful "Dixie Dugan" strip) hold court for trio of awed Woodstock youngsters. Fisher did caricatures for the fair that year. (Photo by Adrian Siegel)

GETTING INTO THE SPIRIT of the fair has always been contagious for Woodstockers of all ages in any era. In this photo from the '40s, Fritz Striebel (L), wife of the late cartoonist, and Zellah Pike, wife of this week's TEMPO cover artist, pose for posterity behind one of those photo cut outs that first became popular on the boardwalks. (Photo by Adrian Siegel)

DRESSING UP for the fair is all part of the fun. Today, it's the hippies in their Indian fringe, love beads, Wallace Beery underwear and castoff service uniforms. In the earliest years, when the late Florence Ballin Cramer took this photo, it was gingham and ruffles and satins and silks, flowered bonnets and Little Bo Peep.

The year was 1910 and Woodstock's art colony had only recently appeared on the map. Textiles and tie-dye, pottery, furniture and jewelry had established hand industry footholds, chamber music was being played, students worked long and hard at painting and crafts, costumed dancers tried modern movements across Byrdcliffe lawns.

Yet one vital element was still missing from this noble and utopian experiment—a library. And, so, eight years after rich British commoner Ralph Whitehead ended his search for an art colony site that combined natural beauty with accessibility on the slopes of Byrdcliffe, he—along with Walter Weyl and Martin Comeau—founded Woodstock's first library. To house it, they picked the building which in recent years was the home of Turnau Opera Players.

Whitehead endowed the fledgling library with a nucleus of 250 non-fiction books and funds for purchasing more of the same. Old records show that within the first decade some 1,200 books found their way onto the shelves . . . mostly non-fiction. What little fiction filtered in came through donation since, in those days, the library was used more by artists and the intelligentsia than the native population.

Into the Valley

In time the library moved down into town and, today, is one of the finest small libraries anywhere—serving all of Woodstock: artists, intellectuals, pseudo-intellectuals, dilettantes, Yankee and Scot descendants, IBM executives, rock musicians, hippies, and the children of all of them.

Its first village location was in what is now the Cafe Espresso but was then called The Nook. When the eating business picked up at The Nook, the books were moved to a small studio in the rear. Many Woodstockers now in their '40s remember taking out the first book they ever read from those shelves.

Money poor in those days, the library's income depended on small membership fees and even smaller book fines—and an occasional benefit concert by local musicians.

The legend persists that money was also raised by an early version of the Library Fair. Some old-timers swear they remember such fairs on the Village Green and in the

BALLOONS were an early staple of the fair, as this long ago photo by Helen Harvey Shotwell proves. Picture appeared on an old post card; was used to advertise the fame of the fair around the globe.

THAT THE TOYS of childhood have weathered the sands of time is evident. The years have rolled past; it's 1969; and it's still balloons. As popular as ever, they're perennially colorful beacons to the fair.

OMAR SHAPLI (far left) and Bill Bolcom (extreme right) get together on the music for "A Great Hoss Pistol" with two cast members. Shapli, a writer-director who has worked with Chicago's famed Second City troupe, among others, is in residence at New Paltz this summer with the Section Ten company now welding "Pistol" in theatrical shape.

SECTION TEN cast members are young and athletic; compose one of the freshest new professional companies in the U.S. Now offering "presentations of material" on the Paltz college campus, they're appearing in a work centering on the Burr-Hamilton duel. Composer Bolcom is using both period music and his own compositions for the play (R. Brown photo)

'A Great Hoss Pistol' Brings Duel to Paltz

The opportunity to see a professional company, under an experienced and highly regarded writer-director and a talented composer, "working out" a new piece of American theatre is not a common one.

Area residents are in luck, however; have such an opportunity this summer.

Section 10, the professional company, under writer-director Omar Shapli and composer Bill Bolcom, is currently working on "A Great Hoss Pistol" at State University College, New Paltz.

Wife's a Grandma

Gloria Stewart will appear in an episode of "The Jimmy Stewart Show," new NBC series in the fall. The wife of the star will play his grandmother in a flashback type of story that gives Stewart a dual assignment in which he will play his own grandfather.

where the group is in residence this summer.

The piece deals with the Hamilton-Burr controversy, and the period of history surrounding it. It has a great deal to say about the founding of this country and the men responsible for founding it.

Right Before Your Eyes

The company is holding a series of "presentations of material," open to the public without charge. A "presentation of material" is a bit more formal than a rehearsal, and an effort is made to preserve as much of the continuity of the work as possible, but Shapli is not reticent about making whatever comments and corrections he feels necessary. And the actors are still, in many cases, improvising and evolving the work, as Shapli says, "right before your very astonished eyes."

The three main characters of "Hoss Pistol" are Alexander Hamilton, Aaron Burr, and Thomas Jefferson. The script is made of that extraordinary and constructed as much as possible diverse group of men who from original material and founded this country.

The "Hoss" cast is young and energetic, and all have studied acting at the NYU School of the Arts, where Shapli teaches.

Music Excels

The music sounded first rate at the last presentation, even though Bolcom said much of it had been completed only the day before, not leaving much rehearsal time for the musicians. Bolcom has composed some original music; is also using period material, including Dr. Samuel Arnold's quaintly vintage opera, "Who Killed Cock Robin?"

Section 10 will have two more presentations of material, Friday July 30 and Thursday Aug. 12 at the Paltz college's Theatre Building. Everyone is invited, no charge; and it's an opportunity any area resident with an interest in the theatre should find hard not to attend.

Underground Notes: A Multi-Media Mix

Under the auspices of Performing Arts of Woodstock, the soon to be formed Theatrical Energy Commission is presenting an Audio-Sound version of Dostoyevsky's "Notes from Underground" tonight, Saturday, July 24, at 7 p.m. and at 9 p.m. — and again tomorrow, Sunday, July 25 at 5 p.m. and 7 p.m. at St. Gregory's "A" frame church on Route 212 in Woodstock.

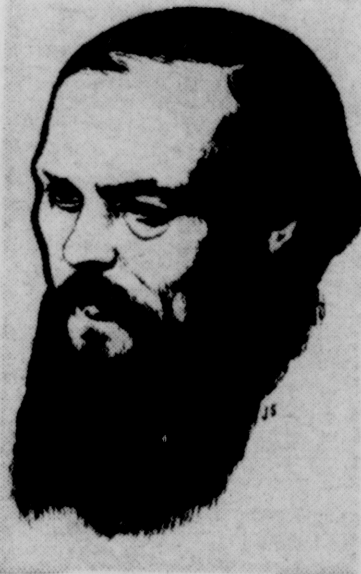

The commission's aims will be to eventually provide a testing ground where creativity can mix with technology. Much experimentation is planned in new multi-media visuals as well as sound. The Dostoyevsky production, the first of its kind, will deal primarily with audio-sound. David Shaw, audio engineer, and Richard Sanchez, its innovator, feel enough has been achieved so far to promise a most unique evening.

"I hope to produce in the future," says Sanchez, "great literary works not usually associated with theater. The Dostoyevsky work," Sanchez notes, "is considered by many to be an existential philosophic work but can, with proper treatment, become a work comprising great theatrical magnitude. Theater today, with all the marvels of technology must be thought of as a realm, not just a place in which to stage a play."

Operatic Musicale

Those who have become familiar with Sanchez's production have referred to it as no mere reading, but a "musicale of operatic proportions — a dynamic rhythmic continuo of logic and reason." Sanchez has worked in the theater in a variety of creative, advisory and technical capacities over the years since 1944. In Woodstock he worked with Eva La Galliene and Margaret Webster's Shakespearean Theater and with Theodore Mann and Jose Quintero at the Maverick.

DANIEL COX (CENTER), City Manager for Walter Reade Theaters here, welcomes Zira (L) and Cornelius as they "Escape from the Planet of the Apes" to settle in at Kingston's Sunset Drive-In. Sci-fi film's the current attraction at local drive-in, and the apes in this Freeman photo by John Kruh are on hand nightly to meet the movie-going public and indulge in some monkey business.

THE MAJESTIC NORD fjord mountains dominate the background in this scene from "SONG OF NORWAY." The musical is fine family fare; stars sweet-voiced Florence Henderson of TV's "The Brady Bunch" fame; is the current attraction at both Kingston's Mayfair and Poughkeepsie's Overlook Drive-In, along with the Cliff Robertson Oscar-winner, "CHARLEY."

MOVIES

Song of Norway

If you're a bug for gorgeous scenery, this is your movie. And, if you remember "The Sound of Music" with warm affection, this is your film.

"Song of Norway," now playing at both Kingston's Mayfair and Poughkeepsie's Overlook Drive-In has been adapted from the 1944 Broadway musical about the life of composer Edvard Grieg.

It's that rarity today—a family movie—and most youngsters will find it enjoyable. Some adults (provided they bore easily as does this reviewer) will not be much taken by this particular version of Grieg's career. The music used is not so much Grieg's as it is popular songs that are merely "based" on the composer's music. From the very beginning, then, the film strikes a false note of somewhat pop trivia. Musical numbers abound but the best thing about their staging is the soaring and stunning Norwegian background.

A Dull Life

Grieg, apparently, had little excitement in his life and, in the film spends most of his time running into dead ends in his desire to create a national music for his homeland.

Florence Henderson, who established herself as a fine singer before turning to dramatic-comedy in TV's "The Brady Bunch," is the heroine of "Song of Norway," and when she's singing, the film does turn enjoyable.

Other Choices

SUMMER OF '42. Held over for a second week—and deservedly so—at both Kingston's Community and Hyde Park's Roosevelt, this film is based on a best-selling novel.

A totally marvelous and entertaining film, "Summer" could be subtitled "An Essay in Nostalgia." One of the most natural and charming movies in years, it's a story of discovery and loss of innocence. It literally glows with tenderness, fun, sentiment and honesty. See it quick before run's end.

ESCAPE FROM THE PLANET OF THE APES. The Simians are back in this third in a series of science-fiction films. Escaping from the doomed planet, apes Roddy McDowell and wife Kim Hunter, splash down in California via a bend in time; become instant celebrities. Monkeyshines and sci-fi thrills abound for fantasy fans of all ages in this latest chapter in the continuing saga of the apes who travel back from A.D. 3955 to circa 1973. It's playing at the local Sunset Drive-In now.

TAKING OFF. Excellent fare this, now playing at Woodstock's Tinker Street Cinema. Famed Czech director Milos Forman takes a long, hard and intelligent look (with a satiric eye) in to the problem posed by the many runaway kids in the U.S. today. With subtle comedy he views the suburbia scene; hits the target on a lot of people we all know, particularly our young.

WOODY ALLEN'S a bumbling bank robber in "Take the Money and Run," the very funny film now playing at the Orpheum in Saugerties.

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH HELEN? Debbie Reynolds plays a dancing teacher and Shelley Winters is cast as her piano accompanist in this horror tale. Both are mothers of sons convicted of murder after a sensational trial—and both are still suffering the consequences. Chiller-thriller is now on screen at the Lyceum in Red Hook.

WHICH WAY TO THE FRONT? A now-bearded Jerry Lewis produces, directs and stars in this film, now at the Hyde Park Drive-In. Funnyman Jan Murray and Los Angeles Dodgers' star Willie Davis are also in the movie, a war-time comedy.

TAKE THE MONEY AND RUN. Woody Allen stars in

Woody Allen's comedy at the Orpheum in Saugerties. As a bumbling, stumbling bank robber, Allen casts himself again in the classic mold of a schnook. But the dialogue is great and the fun is rib-cracking good.

DORIAN WOODWIND QUINTET (L-R) Karl Kraber, flute; Charles Kuskin, oboe; Barry Benjamin, french horn; June Taylor, bassoon; and Jerry Kirkbride, clarinet. The virtuoso wind players return to the Maverick by popular demand this Sunday, July 25.

Dorian Quintet Back by Demand

Insistent public clamor for their return has guaranteed a repeat concert by the Dorian Woodwind Quintet for the Maverick Concerts this Sunday, July 25. The Woodwinders and the bounty of music they bring to any program will be heard at a 3 p.m. concert in Woodstock's rustic Hall tomorrow.

Since 1961 when it was organized under a Fromm Foundation grant at celebrated Tanglewood, the Dorian has gleaned acclaim in the world of chamber music. Concert tours have taken the group across the U.S., to Africa and to Europe for eight weeks of ambassadorial musicianship under the auspices of the U.S. State Department. That tour was a triumph, praised by critics in London, Berlin, Zurich and Rome. Two New York City concerts will follow their Maverick appearance.

Here is a permanent organization of virtuoso wind players that can be relied on to perform the masterworks of the woodwind literature with superb technical capability. In the brief period of their existence, they have been tapped as university-wide artists in residence at the entire and vast State University of New York complex of campuses.

The Adjectives Flowed

Music critics have showered them with such adjectives as: superb young instrumentalists, gifted and up-to-date; fresh and vital; possessed of rare skill in their approach to sound; showing extraordinary enterprise that results in enormous musical values.

Three members of the Quintet have been with the group since its inception: bassoonist Taylor, a veteran of Symphony of the Air and the American Symphony; oboeist Kuskin, formerly of the New York Pro Musica; and clarinetist Lewis, who has appeared as soloist with Stokowski's Symphony.

The two remaining members, flutist Kraber and French horn master Benjamin, are Fulbright grant winner and Rome Philharmonic soloist, and former New York Brass Quintet member and Rochester Symphony soloist respectively.

Sunday's program at the Maverick will include a mix of Baroque, classical and contemporary pieces—some rarely heard today since the combination of instruments needed are only occasionally available. Reicha and J. S. Bach baroque works will be balanced by modern and contemporary pieces by Elliott Carter, Jean Francaix and Luciano Berio.

Five brilliantly endowed young artists, then, providing superlative musicianship and a highly creative program for a "revelation" for tomorrow afternoon's Maverick audience.

Marlin Room for Shore Dinners

All decked out in a cool, watery and artistic marine decor, Rosendale's Sportsmen's Park will begin offering a new dimension in "social sporting" next month.

Under the proprietorship of the Michael Tianos, the Park will be opening the new and unique Marlin Dining Room—offering dining and dancing in a pleasant, relaxing atmosphere.

Gene Whalen, a veritable Ulster County institution with a statewide reputation for his superb fresh seafood menus, will head up the Marlin Room as director and manager. There'll be steaks and daily specials in abundance, but the specialty of the Marlin will be those mouth-watering, old-fashioned Shore Dinners. If you're partial to fish, the Marlin will soon be taking a top place as a must on your next night out.

Entertainment and Surprises

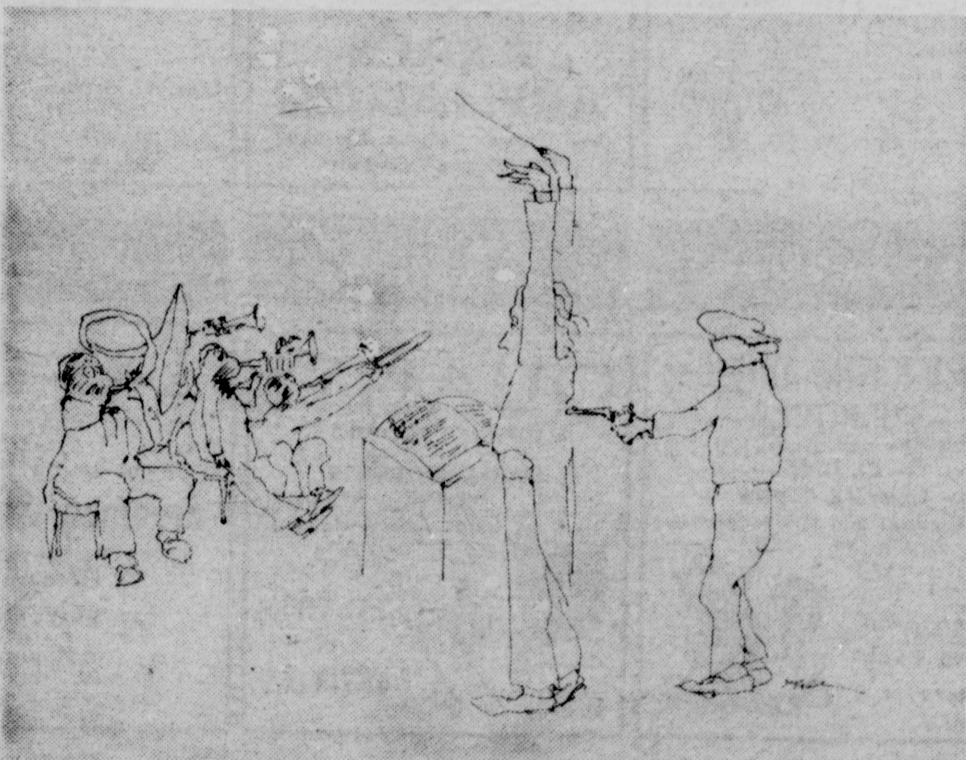

Grand opening is slated for Wednesday, Aug. 4, beginning at 6 p.m., and featured for the gala occasion will be music to dance by courtesy of a live band, special entertainment, gifts for the ladies, prizes aplenty, and a surprise or two, courtesy of the hosts, on the evening's schedule.

Special invitations for the opening gala are going out to area VIPs and other Ulster community leaders, to friends and neighbors, and to long-time fans of both the Tianos and the Whalens.

It's a special occasion few will want to miss. So, assure yourself of this happy time on Aug. 4 and make your reservations now by calling 658-9911—and welcome the opening of the Marlin Room in air-conditioned splendor.

Final Week for Spa Ballet; Pet & Superstar, Too

The final week of its 1971 residence at Saratoga Performing Arts Center features the New York City Ballet performing many of the outstanding works of its repertory in six different programs. Further highlighting this fourth full week of events at SPAC are special one-night performances by English singer Petula Clark and of the rock opera "Jesus Christ Superstar."

Opening the week Sunday, July 25 at 8:30 p.m. is the diminutive blonde songstress who, next to the Beatles, has been Britain's best selling export, Petula Clark. Star of nightclubs, festivals, TV and film, "Pet" is making a return engagement to the Center where in 1969 her show was one of the best received of the season.

The following evening, Monday, July 26 at 8:30 p.m. SPAC hosts the original concert presentation of "Jesus Christ Superstar." This modern musical passion play has moved young and old alike on both the religious and secular levels. It has been played in scores of churches. This version, produced under the artistic supervision of composer Andrew Lloyd Webber and lyricist Tim Rice, features Jeff Fenholt, Yvonne Elliman and Carl Anderson in the leading roles. The total cast of 20 singers is supported by a rock group, Randall's Island, plus a 32 piece orchestra.

Ballet's Last Week

The New York City Ballet opens its last week at SPAC Tuesday evening July 27 with a performance of "Dances at a Gathering," Jerome Robbins' breathtaking masterpiece set to the piano music of Chopin. Sharing the program is "Bugaku," George Balanchine's provocative foray into the world of Oriental courtship rites.

"Concerto for Two Pianos," a new ballet by Richard Tanner to a score of Stravinsky's receives its upstate premiere Wednesday evening, July 28.

It will be seen with "Swan Lake," "In the Night" and "La Valse." The Tanner work will also be danced Saturday afternoon, July 31 along with "Serenade," "Episodes," and

"Slaughter on Tenth Avenue." The company's new production of "Firebird," dominated by Chagall's marvelous sets and costumes, receives its final two performances of the season Thursday and Friday evenings, July 29 and 30. On the former occasion it will be joined by "Serenade" and "Prodigal Son," while on the latter it is part of an all-Stravinsky program that also includes "Monumentum Pro Gesualdo/Movements for Piano and Orchestra," "The Cage" and "Agon."

The last opportunity to see the New York Ballet at SPAC in 1971 will be Saturday evening, July 31 when the program will consist of Balanchine's big hit of 1970, the Gershwin-inspired "Who Cares?," "Monumentum/Movements," and a new ballet to be announced, in all probability the popular "PAMTGG." The New York City Ballet's final Student-Teacher Matinee of the season takes place Friday, July 30 at 2:30 p.m. The program features "Serenade," "Concerto for Two Pianos," and "Who Cares?"

The fifth concert on the 1971 Saratoga Performing Arts Chamber Music Series features the 27-year-old, Argentine-born classical guitarist Ernesto Bitetti Monday, July 26 at 8:30 p.m. at Canfield Casino in downtown Saratoga Springs. The program for this first guitar recital in the history of the Series consists of works by J. S. Bach, Turina, Villa-Lobos, Albeniz and others. Tickets are available at the door prior to performance time.

The seventh week of the Saratoga Film Festival features two films starring W. C. Fields. The master comedian is paired with Pauline Lord in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," being shown Sunday through Tuesday, July 25-27, then appears in the classic "My Little Chickadee," Wednesday and Thursday, July 28-29. On Friday and Saturday, July 30-31, the film is "David Copperfield." Films are shown twice nightly in the Spa Summer Theater beginning at 7:30 p.m.

EDWARD VILLELLA and ballerinas in "Variations," one of the performances danced by the New York City Ballet at Saratoga this month.

Definitely NOT to Be Rendered Unto Caesar

27—THE DAILY FREEMAN, JULY 24, 1971

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

"Render unto Caesar that which is Caesar's," said a man once admired for his wisdom.

Fair enough, say we. Let the lord of the Romans have Manhattan, the Bronx and Staten Island, too. But let's keep the Woodstock Playhouse production of "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to Forum." It's much too good for ancient Rome and far more attuned to our times.

Will Rogers used to say that when he needed a laugh he just read what Congress had done that day. If you need a guffaw, by all means, get yourself to the Playhouse before "Funny Thing" ends its two week run on Aug. 1.

Poetic — and totally zany — license has been taken with life in Rome as it might have evolved on a spring day some 200 years before the Christian era. As a result, an amiable confusion of fact, fiction and farce characterizes this musical as it undoubtedly characterized the world of eunuchs, courtesans and slaves.

The "Prologus"

At the opening curtain, "Funny Thing" gives every indication of being a one-man show — a tour de force for Seymour Penzner as Pseudolus, the round and jolly slave who yearns for his freedom. As he offers his "Prologus" to the audience, it seems obvious he will go on to dominate the show.

But the remainder of the large Woodstock cast is so talented and the whole assemblage so eager to burst into song that Penzner, excellent as he is, is upstaged with regularity. As a slave who's been promised his freedom if he can present his young master with a virginal courtesan, Penzner makes the most of his choice role.

The night is far from totally his, however. Sean Griffin as still another slave named Hysterium (he collects erotic pottery), is a scene stealer supreme. Humor and pathos are provided by a bright, young newcomer in the person of Daniel Cohen. As Hero, the lad who loves a courtesan but can't afford to buy her, Cohen has more than enough charm to carry off a tender love song while clothed in a toga that looks like last year's minidress. Almost awkwardly attractive and with the mein of an ancient Joe Namath, he's the most interesting young leading man to hit the Woodstock boards in half a decade . . . or more.

Artistically, "Funny Thing" is the most ambitious, interesting and entertaining project of the current season at Woodstock. Its "mythical" Rome is a pleasant place — and this particular production gives us actors and actresses who can sing the animated lyrics with spirit and zest.

Fast-Paced Amalgam

The result is an amalgam that results in a fast-paced musical comedy. The music sparkles and the dialogue (a Roman citizen referring to his wife advises the audience "never to fall in love during a total eclipse") is riddled with satire.

"Funny Thing" is an absolute wow. The entire cast is exactly right for each and every role — and there are other engaging aspects to the show. Among them: the straight-off-a-cameo profile of Gretel Cummings as a domineering and suspicious Roman wife; the Ernest Truex memories revived by Gerard Russak as Cummings' henpecked husband (a more frisky, frolicsome Roman would be hard to find); Tanny McDonald looking like a vanilla-iced valentine and singing her "I'm Lovely" number to perfection as the courtesan from Crete; and David Chaney, who almost lumbers onstage as a Roman captain and proceeds to dominate the proceedings from there on by his pure physical presence (all litherness and no lumber) and flawless singing.

By JOAN L. WOINOSKI

It only looks like Europe! Actually, it's Kingston's newest Viennese Coffee House. Located at 63 John Street, it's called "Upstairs" and will be found over downstairs Schneller Market.

Uncertain how those hallways looked BEFORE artists Thomas E. Ocker, Howard Slotnick, and Laurence Jones started the reformation but now . . . WOW!! From floor to ceiling, there are wall paintings of European castles with plenty of clouds and sky, streams and trees, country settings. And for those who'd like to bring art samples home Howard Slotnick offers paintings for sale which bear such intriguing titles as Caffeine Blues, Kindergarten Mania, and Suicide.

Some of the art work was completed only the night before Grand Preview Open House on July 13. There's a scene of Old Hurley Dutch Reformed Church by T. E. Ocker; self-portrait in country-style by Howard Slotnick (who also painted shop signs); and exceptional fruit and vegetable "Good Life"; and a lovely stream 'n trees work of art by proprietor's nephew, Laurence Jones.

"Upstairs" is the result of Laura Schneller and her sister Ruth Jones using their "upstairs" in more ways than one. Cozy and quaint, Coffee Room is open 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Fridays from 6 to 9 (closed Sunday and Monday), and offers Viennese pastries, various tortes including nut tortes with Grillage cream, strudel (apple or cherry in season), Breyers ice cream, lemon sherbet, Melitta coffee, Twinings tea, iced tea or coffee, all served in quiet, slow-moving, old fashioned atmosphere of a Viennese coffee room complete with ice cream parlor chairs and tables.

Antique buffs'll go on a spree perusing for the variety of imports and crafts, pitcher and basins, tea pots, creamer and sugar, mugs and other "collectables." Craft room offers items by artisans from Woodstock and surrounding areas along with foreign flavored articles from Mexico, Texas, Alaska, Italy, plus hand-embroidered skirts and blouses from Hungary . . . all attractively displayed in carpeted, ruby-red wall-papered interior.

Gourmet cookware is featured along with colorful beer steins, cutlery, Cordon Bleu ovenproof porcelain, cookbooks, tobaccos, spices, jewelry and a selection of rock candy and honey drops . . . the kind grandma used to like.

All those well-stocked "finds upon shelves PROVE the gals've been "workin' day and night" (that may be a cliché but a lie it's not!)

J. Ellis Briggs back from Ireland; Elmore Yallum headed for Finland; Oscar Londons home from Arizona; and Ed Fenton, back from Rome says "no parking meters, no sales tax, but motorists drive like mad." (That we have in common but do THEY have a parking garage?)

Pachner Print for Collector's Choice

Once again, after a year's lapse, the popular Collectors' Choice event will be held Sept. 5 at the Woodstock Artists Gallery.

Collectors' Choice is an original fund raising affair initiated by the Woodstock Artists Association six years ago offering ticket purchasers an original print by an outstanding artist and admitting them to a Gala Cocktail Party with an opportunity of taking home as a prize one of a number of outstanding art works made available for the event.

This year famed William Pachner will create the print, an intricate one requiring 12 color separations by noted printer-artist Jerry Jerominek.

He Set a Trend

Pachner is represented in innumerable collections and museums. At one time in his acclaimed career, on his arrival in U.S. from his native Czechoslovakia, he was youthful Art Editor of Esquire Magazine and initiated a whole new trend in fashion illustration. In 1954 he left Esquire to work for the war effort through his art.

From then to the present, Pachner has impressively employed his richly imaginative and innovative gifts, is today considered one of our finest artists.

Tickets for Collector's Choice are also embellished with an original drawing and this year the drawing is by John McClellan. Some lucky "loser" will receive McClellan work as a consolation prize, a fact that will actually encourage losing.

Among artists making work available for Collectors' Choice are Grace Greenwood, Michael Densen, Stefan Lokos, Bernard Steffen and Arthur Zaidenberg.

Early September Party

The Party itself will be held at the Gallery Sept. 5 and will be a glamorous affair open to the public at a nominal admission.

A photograph of the Pachner print and the actual works of the contributing artist will be on view at the Woodstock Artist Gallery.

Tickets for this unusual affair will be available at the Gallery and from Mrs. Sylvia Galen of Woodstock. Early purchase is suggested since the prints given to purchasers are not for sale and soon become collectors' items.

ERNESTLY SPEAKING

ADVERTISEMENT

TEMPO OR NOT TEMPO . . .
That is the question! Whether 'tis better to suffer the slings and arrows of accusations of wilful omissions, or by explanation and exposition to eliminate the misunderstandings of valued patrons. Aye, there's the rub: How do you explain our TEMPO sheet to new patrons? I guess the way to explain is to explain.

Let's start with my answer in this "colyum" last week to "Disappointed" . . . who razed me for failing to mention the Communion Breakfast of Port Ewen's Presentation Church. I explained that we have what we call a TEMPO sheet on our tables, to invite bits of news from patrons who are dining with us . . . said news being anything from the reason for a table for two to a special party for 150. We welcome both.

We also welcome expressions about our food, service, music, drinks, or whatever pleases or displeases you. Yes, we actually welcome justified criticism, because only through such comments can we discover something that may be giving us a black eye without the swelling that makes us notice it!

Back to the explanation. I am printing here a cut of our TEMPO sheet. Since the reproduction is pretty small, I think I'd better "translate" the top of the sheet:

As you probably know, I run a "colyum" in the KINGSTON DAILY FREEMAN on Saturdays, in which I like to mention folks who honor us by dining here, especially if it's any sort of occasion.

Tempo

Ernestly Speaking

NOTE: Here are the facts about my table. And of course you have permission to use these names in your advertising column in THE KINGSTON DAILY FREEMAN.

Name _____ Town _____

If it's an Anniversary, please NUMBER it. For Birthdays...Who's Counting?

Occasion (if any) _____

Guests at Table: _____ of _____

Remarks _____

Robert's Continental Restaurant Port Ewen

"As you probably know, I run a colyum in The Daily Freeman on Saturdays, in which I like to mention folks who honor us by dining here, especially if it's any sort of occasion. I'll appreciate your filling in this form with such details as you care to give; at the same time, this will serve as your permission for me to use these names in my colyum. I assure you that your name will not be taken in vain. Ernie."

I'm just as sure you won't be able to read the handwritten part, so I'll give it to you in brief:

Date: 7/10/71; Name: Carl & Edna Cline; Town: Port Ewen; Occasion (if any): 28th Wedding Anniversary; Guests at Table: Mrs. John Hamilton, Port Ewen; Mr. and Mrs. Steven Thayer, Port Ewen; (And Especially) Tara Lynn Thayer, Granddaughter. Remarks: Excellent Service; Food Was Delicious."

That's how it's done; and if there isn't enough space on the front to list all your guests or news, use the back!

AND BY THE WAY . . .
The next couple of "col-yums" figure to be kind of slim, for a variety of reasons, chiefly: (a) In the July/August heat we get a lot of diner-outers, but not too many of them are "occasions." So we don't get as many TEMPO sheets turned in as we do the rest of the year. (b) Roberto is back from the hospital, which relieves me from handling some of his chores, but I am still handling my chores plus doubling in brass for whomever else drops out in the heat or under pressure. So I haven't much time to devote to the "colyum" as I'd like.

I'm so beat right now I won't even enthuse about my favorite subject, which has just got to be our "SATURDAY SOIREE AND SHIVAREE" . . . our own special "Good Time Hours" . . . a fun-occasion than which there is no whicher, in my book. As long as the MARK GARRISON Duo is on hand with the Organ and Drums, there's always a talented cast of customers on hand to do their things and add to the enjoy-

'You Are There' Back
CBS is bringing back one of its famous old programs, "You Are There," as part of its Saturday lineup for children in the fall. The format of dramatizing various events in history will be the same, but the program will be designed for a younger audience than was formerly the case. It started as a radio series in May 1948 and stayed on for two seasons. From February 1953 until October 1957, it was a television feature.

IT PAYS to ADVERTISE in the KINGSTON FREEMAN

Graphic Workshop's 'Refurbished' Face

The grand opening of the recently refurbished Graphic Workshop at Woodstock Artists Gallery takes place today, Saturday, July 24, with a trio of highly competent artist-instructors on hand to greet the public and would-be students.

Carol Bugnoni, Suzanne Blatter and David Eckstein will be in charge of the Workshop and they invite students to discuss registration.

Carol Bugnoni is a capable and youthful artist; participated in a three-man show at the Woodstock Gallery earlier this year.

Museum Special For Over-60s

Each year Senior Citizens within a 60 mile radius of Museum Village of Smith's Clove, at Monroe, N.Y., are admitted to the Museum as special guests. All persons 60 years of age or older will be admitted free on Sunday, August 1.

Senior Citizens Clubs from Kingston, Middletown, and other cities are planning on attending. The project started by Roscoe W. Smith, founder of the Museum, is intended to encourage Senior Citizens and Golden Age Clubs. It is expected that representative groups from Ulster, Rockland, and Orange counties will be well represented.

Information regarding the all day affair may be had by writing Old Museum Village of Smith's Clove, Monroe, N.Y.

Suzanne Blatter, a graduate of Rhode Island School of Design where she studied graphics, is presently teaching at the Young Peoples Studio in Woodstock.

A Superb Lithographer

David Eckstein has acquired an enthusiastic following with his sensitive lithographs. Eckstein has lived in Woodstock for the past several years and has studied widely both here and abroad.

Graphics are continuing to increase in interest for artist-collectors and this important medium to which almost every painter of note has turned his hand, is receiving a deserved revival.

The Workshop has long been a part of the Woodstock Artists Gallery and has been directed by top-flight instructors, including Barbara Neustadt and Lillian Lent.

The reopening of the Workshop has been made possible by partial funding by the New York State Council on the Arts.

lobby of the long vanished Woodstock Inn several years prior to World War I. Some say not so but, however you slice it, the concerts rarely raised more than $150 in an entire year. Recent library fairs have grossed thousands in one day.

Woodstock's library has been entrenched in its present site on Tinker Street since the spring of 1927—the year Lucky Lindy flew to Paris, Babe Ruth hit 60 homers, and Al Jolson put an end to silent movies.

As for that perennial contender for "THE SOCIAL EVENT OF THE SEASON," the Library Fair, the first officially recognized fair was held that same summer on the grounds of today's library—and it's been held every summer since.

For durability, then, it has few peers. And, for fun and bargains, it's always a winner—one that involves hundreds of people working with a will to raise thousands of dollars to benefit the book-reading public.

In its early days, the fair was rustic and colorful; raised money while providing inexpensive food, clothing and other items for Woodstockers in less prosperous times. Today it's still a magnet that attracts bargain hunters, and if its color has lost some of the charm and magic that has been lost with all progress, it's still an event we never miss.

It's bigger than it ever could have been in its infancy; brings in more revenue; still manages an unusual feel of friendly camaraderie and gaiety for these often "unfeeling" times. Gone by the wayside is the spontaneous costume party it once was. Today it's mostly a hardy money earner (supporting a yearly turnover of more than 30,000 books), but one that cannot be faulted for its foods, fun, crafts, pageantry and festive air.

One of the largest and oldest fairs in Ulster, next Saturday's day-long edition will be wonderful fun as crowds gather to watch artists and craftsmen at work, listen to the music, search for an out-of-print book or a bargain-priced painting, scurry for hardly-worn shoes and fur coats, sniff the aromas filling the air of hot dogs and donuts, and join in the gaiety of the happy doings in the fashion of Woodstock's warm heritage for festival fun.

It's long been one of our favorite summer diversions and, depending on what you're looking for: Ulster's biggest bargain binge, an eat-feast, the hoopla and razzamatazz of Coney Island on a Saturday night, or a cultural event that tells something of the history and folklore of an artist colony, you'll find the Woodstock Library Fair's a little of all these things.

If you're looking for soda pop and song, gastronomical delights, fun and games, bargains for the clothes closet or the house, or a cultural pilgrimage with touches of the past, you'll find this fete your mug of cider. So drive on over to Woodstock next Saturday and join in.

Art on a Bridge

An art show will play a major role in an area Centennial Celebration—and its site can be expected to add to its charm.

The art show will be a featured part of the Wappingers Falls Centennial Celebration in that Dutchess County Village and the exhibit will be held on the village bridge.

It's set for Sunday, Aug. 8 from 1 to 5 p.m., and all artists of the Hudson Valley are invited to show their works. Entries for the show should be brought to the bridge from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. that day.

Oils, acrylics and water colors are wanted and first, second and third prizes will be awarded in each category by judges Pat Mazure of Poughkeepsie and Max Schnitzer of Wappingers Falls. Entrants will receive a Centennial Certificate of Merit; the art show will be held Sunday, Aug. 15 in case of rain on the original date.
